Questions may give clues on what the School Committee wants in a superintendent

By Neil Fater

People curious about what School Committee members want from the next superintendent of schools may find some answers in the questions members asked the original five finalists.

Last week, William Jutras was eliminated from consideration, leaving R. Lloyd Jaeger, John Krewer, Dick Neal and Dennis Pope in the superintendent sweepstakes.

With the exception of Tina Girdwood, each committee member asked most, if not all, of the candidates the same question or two.

Ms. Girdwood did not have a standard query, but voted to eliminate Dennis Pope from further consideration. When she asked Mr. Pope about his interaction with students he said, "If I have a weakness, I would say that's where it is as a superintendent."

Town Meeting: Yes to historic district, cat vaccinations and chimney caps

By Joan Brown

In a meeting where finding a seat was no problem, residents voted 168-74 to form Andover's first historic district in Ballardvale. Voters also approved rabies vaccinations for cats; caps on new and rebuilt chimneys; and spending $100,000 for traffic emitters.

Defeated were bids that would change the leash law to allow dogs to be under voice control; install an irrigation system at Ballardvale Green; and record Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee meetings.

Only 295 of the town's 19,000 registered voters attended the third night of Town Meeting on Wednesday, April 12, down from the 837 residents attending Monday night's session and 571 who came out on Tuesday.

Ballardvale wins one, loses one

Approved by just seven votes over the required two-thirds majority, the Ballardvale Historic District bylaw vote caps off a two-year effort by the district study commission to protect and preserve the area.

"Ballardvale is one of this town's precious resources that deserves our care and our preservation," said Tim Barash, commission

Raytheon seeks tax cut from the town Five of Andover's largest taxpayers file for abatements

By Don Staruk

Raytheon Co., Andover's largest taxpayer, has filed for a property tax abatement from the town, the first time it has done so in at least the last six years and possibly the first time since it has been in town. But Raytheon is not alone.

Hewlett-Packard, Gillette Co., Genetics

Institute and Digital Equipment Corp. have each also filed for abatements from the town.

The five are among the town's six largest taxpayers. The combined tax bill for all five for this year, Fiscal 1995, is $4.66 million.

Bill Krajleski, town assessor, said this

PA teacher follows blankets to Kobe

By Don Staruk

Cyrus Rolbin, a teacher of Japanese at Phillips Academy, visited Kobe, Japan, last month, the site of a devastating earthquake in January that left more than 300,000 people homeless.

"It really, really looks like what a war zone must look like - post war," he said last week, while sitting in the sunshine outside his PA office.

Immediately following the quake, Mr. Rolbin had been instrumental in organizing a collection at the school of blankets and coats for earthquake victims. He said his visit was an opportunity to see what his efforts achieved. He hoped sharing his experience would give others involved in the blanket collection some of the satisfaction he received in knowing that his actions helped.

Though he didn't necessarily see the specific blankets given by PA students and others in the community, Mr. Rolbin did visit several shelters and tent villages where victims are still using blankets, coats and numerous other donated items.

Sending the blankets

Mr. Rolbin lived in Japan for three years, 1989-1992, while both studying and teaching. He visited many other times. The day he heard about the quake in January,

Say what? Play Donkey Ball

You can put a donkey on the court, but can you make it play basketball?

Students, teachers, administrators and other town dignitaries will learn the answer to that question when they meet to play donkey basketball, Saturday, April 29, at 7 p.m. at the Andover High School gym.

The athletes are prepared to ride their braying brutes into battle to raise funds for the Hole In The Wall Gang Camp in memory of Stephen Milmoie (AHS Class of '97). The camp is a non-profit organization dedicated to providing terminally-ill children with recreational opportunities and enjoyable times with peers. It is a special place that brought great joy to Stephen during his fight with cancer. The fundraiser is being sponsored by his friends and classmates at Andover High.

Advance tickets will cost $5 for students/adults and $3 for children under 12, or $6 and $4, respectively, at the door. Advance tickets will be available at all area schools.

Among the rules for donkey basketball is that players have got to do everything while perched on the beasts. You can't catch or throw a ball or make a basket unless you're on a donkey.

John and Leticia Sisters of Danby, Vt., owners of the burros, said, "The biggest challenge for these brave, if not fool-hardy competitors is to save face as they try to maintain some sort of dignity as they attempt to ride their donkey counterparts. Although the rider's object of the game is to actually score some baskets, the donkeys' object is to make complete asses out of the would-be riders." The donkeys are docile creatures who may be petted and ridden by children during half-time.

NEWS IN BRIEF

Town GOP to meet

Andover Republican Town Committee will meet Thursday, April 27, at 7:30 p.m. at First Essex Savings Bank on Main Street. Registered Republicans are welcome to attend.

Cable TV to show off

"Public Access Information Night," a look behind the scenes of television production by Andover residents, will be held in the TCI Cablevision studio at Andover High School Thursday, April 27, from 7:30-9 p.m. Admission is free and refreshments will be served. RSVP to 691-0035.

Sen. Kerry to address Chamber of Commerce

Massachusetts U.S. Senator John Kerry will address the Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce at its annual dinner Friday, April 28, at the Andover Marriott. The Chamber's new board of directors will be announced at the event.

Senator Kerry will speak on the government's role in business and economic development relative to the Chamber's activity.

Legislative breakfast

In other news about the Chamber, it, with the United Way of Merrimack Valley, will host a legislative breakfast at Holy Family Hospital, 70 East St., Methuen, Friday, April 28, from 8-9:30 a.m. "A Dialogue with the Valley Legislators" will explore ways of working together to address the community service component of welfare reform and examine mutual concerns regarding human service needs in the valley with a discussion with the Merrimack Valley Legislative Delegation and Joseph V. Gallant, commissioner of the Department of Transitional Assistance. Senators Tarr, Jajuga, Leahy and O'Brien and several state representatives will participate. Dan Warner, editor of The Eagle-Tribune, will be the moderator.

Call United Way of Lawrence for further information.

Sen. O'Brien will be in Andover April 24

State Senator John D. O'Brien, D-Andover, will hold office hours Monday, April 24, at the Andover Senior Citizen Center at Whittier Court from 10 to 11 a.m., and at Memorial Hall Library at Elm Square from 6 to 7 p.m. All residents are welcome.

Tech School offers water-safety course

The Greater Lawrence Technical School and the Merrimack Valley Red Cross will co-sponsor a water safety instructors course starting Monday, April 24, at 6:30 p.m.

The six-week course will train candidates to be able to teach all levels of the American Red Cross swimming and diving program, community water safety, infant and preschool program, water fitness and Waddles Aquatic Safety.

Participants must be at least 17 years old and have a current emergency water safety or lifeguard certificate and Level VI swim skills or the equivalent.

Marilyn Fitzgerald and Shawn Logan will be the instructor trainers. All classes will be held at the Greater Lawrence Technical School pool site at 57 River Road.

For registration information, call the Red Cross at (508)372-6871 or the school at 686-0194.

Birders to meet

The annual meeting of the Merrimack Valley Bird Club will be held Friday, April 21, at 7:30 p.m. at Evans Hall, Phillips Academy.

Lillian Files, the Bluebird Lady, will report on the successes and failures of her bluebird trail at her home, Windswept Acres, in Tyngsboro. She has maintained these boxes for more than 45 years and lectured all over New England on her experiences. Ms. Files emphasizes that these birds need nesting sites that have a 1½-inch hole to protect them from starlings. During her hour program, she will explain how houses can be built and maintained to encourage the return of these birds.

Albert Retelle, president of the club, will present the spring program of walks for weekends in May. One of the trips will be to Ms. Files' home to see the bluebirds that are using her houses. The public is invited to attend the meeting and join the club.

Legislators working to stop train whistles

During a recent House budget debate, State Rep. Gary M. Coon, R-Andover, and Rep. Edward A. LeLacheur, D-Lowell, successfully added an outside section to the state budget that would prohibit trains from sounding warning whistles when passing through grade crossings in Andover, provided the crossing complies with Federal Railway Administration requirements.

This amendment was identical to a bill filed by Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover, and Rep. Coon on behalf of the town of Andover. The measure received local approval in town meeting last December. Rep. Coon noted that similar legislation prohibiting the sounding of train whistles in the town of Acton was signed into law last year by Governor Weld.

"I hope that this amendment is signed into law so that the residents can go back to the lifestyle they enjoyed prior to the imposition of whistle blowing," said Rep. Coon.

Top spenders were the top vote-getters

By Neil Fater

Money talks, or at least provides candidates the forum to do so. That's one message from this year's town election, where the apparent top spenders also became the top vote-getters.

All 11 of this year's candidates have filed their first finance reports, outlining their expenses from Jan. 1, 1995, to March 10, 1995. Another campaign finance report is due next week at the town clerk's office, but only five candidates had returned their second reports by mid-afternoon Tuesday. These second reports covered the two or three weeks before and after the March 27 election, from March 11 to April 17.

Through March 10, Barry Finegold, the big winner in the March election, had spent more than twice that of any other candidate. Mr. Finegold unseated 12-year incumbent Charlie Wesson for a spot on the Board of Selectmen.

Mr. Finegold raised $3,840 and spent $2,069.30 before March 11. In addition to spending money on advertising, posters and postage costs, Mr. Finegold also spent $400 to hire Les Bernal, of North Andover, who was listed as a "consultant."

During this time, Jerry Silverman, re-elected selectman, spent $762.19 of the $2,506.35 in his war chest. Neither Mr. Finegold nor Mr. Silverman had filed a second report by Tuesday afternoon.

Charlie Wesson spent $686.46 of his own money up until March 10, and then another $829.22 from March 11-April 17. In total, he spent $1,515.68 of his own money in a losing effort.

Bill Coderre, the final selectman candidate, spent $125.11 of his own money up until March 10, and then another $215.77 after that. He spent $340.88 of his own money during the entire campaign.

School Committee

In the School Committee race, the top spender was the leading vote-getter, as well.

Tina Girdwood raised $2,726 and spent $955.69 during the first phase of the election.

By contrast, David Birnbach, who also won a committee seat, raised and spent only $178.08 during this time, at least $153.08 of which was his own money.

Neither Ms. Girdwood nor Mr. Birnbach had filed their second reports by Tuesday afternoon.

Bill Josephson has filed both reports. In total he raised and spent $1,084.22 during the 1995 election. Most, if not all, of this money was his own or was donated by family members.

Other races

As of March 10, Jason Fox, the eventual Housing Authority winner, had spent $400, while his opponent, Mark Courtney, had spent $191.10. Mr. Courtney spent another $479.80 during the second filing period, while Mr. Fox had not returned his final report by Tuesday. Mr. Courtney spent his own money and Mr. Fox used cash donated by family members.

Jim Doherty and John Doyle, the two candidates for moderator, didn't raise or spend any money on their campaigns. Mr. Doherty retained his post as moderator for another year.

Supt. finalists

David Birnbach, committee member, asked candidates to define the School Committee's role, and to explain what they consider "a good school board."

He also did his share of role playing, posing questions such as, "If I was a principal what would I like about working with you?"

He joined Ms. Girdwood by voting to eliminate Mr. Pope from the list.

Susan Dalton asked candidates how they evaluate which of the "many new trends and theories" belong here.

When she ran for re-election last year, Ms. Dalton said, "I tend to be less impressed with the newest whatever, the newest fill-in-the-blank," and said she'd avoid "the common tendency to buy into every innovation that glitters but is not necessarily gold."

Ms. Dalton cast the lone vote to eliminate Lloyd Jaeger. He said his philosophy is "success is never final and failure is never fatal."

When Ms. Dalton asked him how he deals with an under-achieving child, Dr. Jaeger said, "I don't think high expectations necessarily has a skills-based boundary," and talked about the importance of an active parent outreach program.

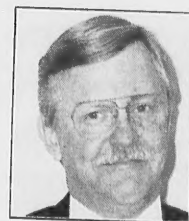

Ms. Dalton and fellow committee member Lloyd Willey asked what the candidates know about the 1993 Education Reform Act.

Mr. Willey wanted to know how candidates feel about having leveling and class rank at the secondary school level. When he ran for School Committee last year he said he wanted to expand leveled math courses into the fifth grade.

Mr. Willey also asked candidates to define the type of middle-school principal they will hire to replace Sam Campbell.

Both he and Dick Muller, committee member, asked candidates about the economic differences between their current community and Andover. They pointed out that Andover spends considerably less per student than candidates' present communities, but candidates said the bulk of this difference could be explained by a whopping difference in teacher salaries.

Lloyd Jaeger

Mr. Muller also asked candidates to explain why the average tenure for Massachusetts superintendents is less than three years.

Attorney general to rule on Andover by-law

By Neil Fater

The attorney general may rule this week on whether selectmen are violating state law when they create the annual Town Meeting warrant.

Dennis Teves, Mohawk Road, asked Sen. John O'Brien, D-Andover, and Rep. Gary Coon, R-Andover, to seek a ruling on his behalf because an article he and 13 other registered voters signed was not placed on the annual Town Meeting warrant.

Mr. Teves submitted the article on Feb. 9, one month after the warrant for April Town Meeting was closed.

However, Mr. Teves contends the town by-law allowing the warrant to close violates state law that requires selectmen to insert all articles submitted with the signature of at least 10 registered voters.

Thomas Urelis, town counsel, believes Andover is not in violation of state law because this bylaw was approved by the attorney general back in 1973.

"Therefore, it may be presumed that the attorney general did not believe the bylaw violated state law," he wrote in a memo to Buzz Stapczynski, town manager.

"I just want to make sure that this doesn't happen again," said Mr. Teves. "I'm not saying we have a dictatorship in Andover. We just need to open up this government. This government's got to be more responsive to the people."

The article, also supported by Bill

Coderre, a candidate for selectman this year, was an effort to deal with the town's population growth and the resulting tax increases, said Mr. Teves.

Walter Radulski, a legislative aide for Rep. Coon, said his office was hopeful it will receive a ruling from the attorney general this week.

Getting into the local Hall of Fame

The deadline for submitting nominations for the Punchard/Andover High Athletic Hall of Fame is Friday, May 12.

Induction ceremonies for the Hall are to be held once every three years.

The purpose of the Hall of Fame is to recognize individuals whose accomplishments in the area of athletics were significant to the Andover team, school and community. Eligible candidates include individual players, coaches, administrators and teams. Nominated athletes must have graduated from either Punchard or Andover High School, and demonstrated outstanding ability and sportsmanship.

Coaches are to be judged on their performances in the development of individual and team success, and must have made a significant contribution toward promoting sound educational values. Administrators should be nominated based on their long-term contributions to the school's athletic department.

Each candidate must have been graduated from Punchard/Andover for at least four years. To be inducted, a candidate must receive 70 percent of the vote of the elector's board. The Hall of Fame Committee is comprised of 10 people, all of whom serve on the elector's board with five also serving as the executive board.

All nominations must be submitted to James Hurley, Athletic Director, 36 Bartlett St., Andover, Mass 01810.

MV Chamber supports Raytheon's efforts

The Merrimack Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors has voted to endorse and support the public efforts recently made by Raytheon Company in calling attention to the high cost of doing business in Massachusetts.

Thousands of manufacturing jobs have been lost because companies have not been able to compete with similar organizations in other states, according to a press release from the Chamber.

"The Chamber also wishes to call attention to the loss of jobs of its smaller members in the manufacturing and service industries that have been suppliers to companies such as Raytheon for many years," the release stated.

"The Legislature and administration have taken some positive steps needed to improve the economic climate of the Commonwealth," the release continued. "Balancing the budget, slowing the rate of increase of a traditional budget buster, i.e., Medicaid, worker's compensation reform and reducing the capital gains tax, have been significant in providing businesses, large and small, a greater opportunity for job creation and capital investment.

"The 1995 legislative agenda contains a number of items with your support can further promote sustained economic growth:

- Permanency of the 3 percent investment tax credit.
- Modification of the R&D tax credit to provide an incentive for diversifying firms to conduct non-defense related research in Massachusetts.
- Consideration of job training tax credit.
- Continued effort in bringing the current unemployment insurance system in line with other states.
- Lower the current bank tax rate from 12.54 percent, the highest in the nation, to 10.5 percent."

Michael Geraghty joins Marshalls

Marshalls president and chief operating officer Jerome R. Rossi recently announced that Michael Geraghty has joined the company as vice president of strategic planning and financial services, a new position.

Mr. Geraghty is responsible for implementing the company's credit program, managing relationships with financial and credit firms and supporting strategic planning, including long-range and operating plans. He reports to Mr. Rossi.

Prior to joining Marshalls, Mr. Geraghty had been with May Department Stores for 15 years, most recently as vice president of credit operations for Filene's since 1993.

He served as vice president of credit and customer relations and, in 1983, as vice president/controller, for May California. In 1985, he became senior vice president and chief financial officer of G. Fox.

Mr. Geraghty holds a bachelor of business administration degree from Iona College and a master of business administration degree from St. John's University.

Marshalls headquarters is located at Brickstone Square.

CRITICAL QUESTIONS YOU SHOULD ASK BEFORE YOU LIST YOUR HOME

Question 5 from the FREE Special Report:

"29 Critical Questions to Ask a Realtor® Before You List."

When it comes to selling your home, one of the most important decisions is the first decision: Which real estate agent should you work with? Linda Cutter is offering this free special report to help make the decision a little easier. Question 5 is "What is the average length of time your listings are on the market?" You may automatically assume the shorter time on the market, the better. But take note: If an average length of time on the market is significantly faster than the average for homes in the area, is it because this agent is more effective or because he or she likes to low-ball the asking price in order to get homes sold more quickly? It's something you should think about before you hire an agent to sell your home, and it's just one of the many helpful hints you'll find in Linda's special report. For the whole story, call Linda and request your copy today.

The Comeback Kids are fighting back for a center

By Neil Fater

It was just after the youth complex plan failed at Town Meeting that Tom Urbelis, town counsel, came up with a nickname for the Youth Council: The Comeback Kids.

It's fitting, then, that members are planning to soon come back to a Special Town Meeting with a similar Recreation Park youth-center plan.

Supporters want to act quickly because the Shawsheen Extended Day program (SHED), the likely partner in this plan, is considering other solutions to its long-term space needs.

According to supporters, if SHED is involved in a youth complex, it's expected to pick up $100,000 of the $125,000 annual cost of operation, in addition to its own expenses.

If SHED bails out of this proposal, the Youth Council likely will have to create a very different plan.

The support shown by town officials since the Town Meeting defeat has been a positive sign for the youth project. The Planning Board supported the concept of a youth center at Town Meeting, for instance, but planners now seem willing to take a more active role.

"If they (Youth Council members) come back, they'll be ready because we'll make sure they're ready," said Stephen Colyer, planning director. "If you just do the right things, go through the right steps, you'll put the facility where it belongs."

If the youth complex plan's going to fly in its second attempt, the youth may need this type of support of town officials. Although residents at Town Meeting supported the Rec Park project 431-310, short of the two-thirds majority needed, more officials voted against the plan than voted for it.

In addition, some Town Meetings speakers said they did not believe officials took an active enough role in the process. One reason for this hands-off approach may have been that officials wanted this to remain a youth-friendly rather than a government-created project.

"I think that it could be that (town officials) didn't want to step on the toes of the youth," said Brian Major, adult Youth Council member.

But to see the youth through the neces-

Fired organist files suit against Christ Church

By Don Staruk

Renea Waligora, an organist for Christ Church who was fired in 1993, has filed a suit in Superior Court charging the church, the diocese and the Rev. James Diamond with discrimination against her because she has dissociative identity disorder, or multiple personality disorder.

Ms. Waligora, fired in December 1993, filed a complaint with the Massachusetts Commission Against Discrimination and the federal Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in March 1994 alleging the discrimination. She followed that with the filing of the lawsuit earlier this month.

In addition to the discrimination, the complaint alleges that Rev. Diamond invaded Ms. Waligora's privacy and defamed her.

Rev. Diamond would not comment on the charges in the past, and was away and unavailable for comment this week. Ann Anderson, Rev. Diamond's administrative assistant, this week also opted not to comment on the charges. Susan Banning, of Hemenway and Barnes and who represented the church in the discrimination complaint, said this week she has not been contacted to represent the church in the lawsuit, and that she wasn't sure if the church had even been served with the papers for the suit.

Ms. Waligora was director of music at the church for more than four years, from 1989 until she was fired on Dec. 26, 1993. She was diagnosed with dissociative identity disorder in the fall of 1993.

The Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts and its bishop, who oversees the parish, refused to rectify Rev. Diamond's actions, according to Betsy Ehrenberg and Bryan Decker, Ms. Waligora's lawyers.

FINANCIAL STRATEGIES

by Ronald R. Hill, CLU, ChFC

DIVORCE AND RETIREMENT BENEFITS

Divorced women of retirement age are entitled to Social Security benefits based on their former husbands' earnings. To qualify for these benefits, they must have been married to their former spouses for at least 10 years and must be at least 62-years-old. Beyond that, they cannot begin receiving benefit checks until two years after their divorces. Divorced women are entitled to these benefits even if their ex-husbands remarry. On the other hand, if a divorced woman remarries, she loses the right to benefits based on her former husband's earnings - unless her second marriage also ends in divorce. In that case, if both marriages lasted ten years, she could elect Social Security benefits based on either ex-husband's earnings. If you are a divorced woman, we can be of great help to you in financially planning your future. Please give us a call; there will be no charge for the initial consultation, and you would certainly not be under any obligations. We look forward to the possibility of hearing from you.

Are you changing financial circumstances, dissatisfied with your system of money management, interested in more financial information... concerned about the cost of your investments and taxes... seeking a financial planning coordinator? BAYSTATE FINANCIAL SERVICES provides an overview and analysis of your unique financial situation along with counseling to set or refine your personal and financial goals. Call us today at 475-9212. We are located here in Andover, at 10 Essex Street. Our Boston office is located at 100 N. Washington St. (617-523-4500). Written and verbal references are available upon request.

HINT The amount borrowed against the cash value of an insurance policy does not have to be repaid, but it is then subtracted from the death benefit. With the right kind of policy, the death benefit will greatly increase over time, so it will stand up well to borrowing.

sary political process, said Mr. Major, "now we need the town government to step forward and work more closely with us to identify exactly what that process entails."

Selectman Larry Larsen admits the perceived distance of officials "certainly was one of the contributing variables" in the defeat of the article and he appears poised to be a key mover in pushing the second effort along.

"I'm interested in, for example, what does the Finance Committee feel we need to do? What does the Planning Board feel we need to do? What do the young people feel we need to do?" said Dr. Larsen. "We have to make sure that all the data, all the information and all the material to help people (evaluate the plan) is available."

"We want to gather all the support we can from everywhere," said Mr. Major. "Larry will be a key member of that support push."

Mr. Major said he has met with other officials, including Don Robb, Finance Committee chairman, who spoke against the article presented at April Town Meeting, but then called the negative vote "something tragic."

"The other nice thing about what's occurred here is we've really formed what can be a community project because of the number of people who have come forward to say, 'What can I do?'" said Mr. Major. "I've had a lot of people approach me in the street or at work."

However, opponents of a Rec Park plan still will pose many of the same questions they did at this Town Meeting the next time around. Safety issues, such as how youths will get to the park, are among the concerns.

Another is whether the town philosophically supports the idea of a public-private partnership such as that between a SHED-like program and the Youth Council.

In addition, the School Committee wants to create an extensive after-school program of its own and members might not approve of giving town land to a virtual competitor.

Three School Committee members voted against the Rec Park project, although they said it was because of inadequate planning.

SCHOOLTALK

The Andover/North Andover YMCA's annual Healthy Kids' Day will be held Saturday, April 22. For more details, call the YMCA at 685-3541.

Openings are still available in most of the Y's summer vacation clubs. Stop by or call for a brochure and available dates.

Spring term offerings at the YMCA include physical and aquatic courses and special interest classes for all ages. Beginning next week, April 24, learn to sew, make chocolate truffles or a quilt, knit or decorate cakes. A two-session workshop on spring gardening is also offered. Call the Y for more information.

Registration is underway for the Y's fall preschool. Programs for 3- and 4-year-olds include swimming, crafts and gym. For more details, call Anne Marie Erler at the Y.

Christ Church Children's Center will host a 25th anniversary celebration in Christ Church Parish Hall, 25 Central St., next Saturday, April 29, from 2-4 p.m. There will be refreshments, balloons and entertainment by Brian Corcoran. As part of its celebration, the center will kick off its scholarship-fund campaign to help children who need financial assistance.

The Children's Center, established in 1969 as a church-sponsored, nonsectarian, state-licensed nursery school, has grown from two classrooms of 40 children to nine classrooms, serving 150 children in morning and afternoon programs.

During the 1992-'93 school year, the Children's Center won accreditation from the National Academy of Early Childhood Programs after going through a comprehensive process of internal study and external professional review. For more information, call 475-4037.

The directors and staff of the Children's Studio for the Arts, a summer day program devoted to the exploration of drama, music, dance and visual arts, will hold an information night for parents Wednesday, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. at Bancroft School.

The program offers students entering grades 4, 5 and 6 "an opportunity to develop an appreciation of the arts and participate in artistic experiences fostering their creative expression and talents," organizers said.

Children can enroll for either one or two weeks. The full-day sessions will be offered the weeks of July 10-15 and July 17-21. Students will participate in daily workshops in their chosen area of concentration. Each student will develop an art portfolio and participate in a performance and exhibition showcasing their work.

The Children's Studio for the Arts is sponsored through the Department of Community Services and will use the facilities of Bancroft School. Brochures and registration forms are available at the DCS office on Bartlett Street. Call 475-3800, Ext. 280 for more information.

The following students from Andover have been named to the honor roll at Fellowship Christian Academy:

Grade 3: High honor, Jonathan Kidd and Jessica Lerman. Honor, Andrew Jensen. Grade 4: High honor, Hannah Sayess. Honor, Peter Jensen and Ashley Perkins. Grade 6: High honor, Ariana Kidd. Honor, Elizabeth Lerman. Grade 7: High honor, Emily McElfresh. Grade 8: Honor, David Kidd. Grade 11: Honor, Erin Walshe. Grade 12: Honor, Holly Sayess.

Kelly Lacina of Andover, a junior at Nazareth Academy in Wakefield, was named to the first honor roll for the third quarter. A student must achieve a grade-point average of 3.8 or higher in major courses to qualify for first honors.

Christopher DeLorenzo, a third-grade student at West Elementary School, earned honorable mention in the Massachusetts Horticultural Society Poster Contest. His was one of 1,100 posters entered by elementary school students throughout Massachusetts.

The contest theme was "How Seeds Travel." Chris drew a red fox walking through the flowers collecting seeds on its fur. The seeds would travel on the fox to other locations where flowers would eventually grow.

His poster was displayed at Spring Flower Show at Bayside Expo Center in Boston last month.

James J. Perry of Andover, a junior at Malden Catholic High School, was named to the first honors list for the third quarter.

Signed 'Cheers' script among items to be auctioned at PA

An apartment in Paris for one week next fall or winter, a signed copy of a Cheers script, an original antique photograph of Abraham Lincoln, and a piece of the original floor from the L.A. Forum autographed by Jerry West are among the items to be auctioned at Phillips Academy this Sunday, April 23, in Tang Theater in George Washington Hall. The auction is sponsored by the department of theater and dance to raise funds for its production of Highest Standard of Living, in August in Scotland.

The theater department was invited to represent the United States as part of the first American High School Theater Festival, which will be part of Edinburgh International Festival Fringe. The Edinburgh Festival is the largest of its kind in the world with more than 23,000 performances and exhibitions spanning a three-week period.

"This is an exciting and unique opportunity for some of Phillips Academy's most energetic and gifted theater students to perform for a truly international audience and experience the vast array of art, music, dance and theater at the festival," said Mark Efinger, chairman of the department of theater and dance.

A cast and crew of 23 students will stage Highest Stan- dard of Living, Keith Reddin's satire of "American xenophobia and paranoia in the Reagan era." PA student Joel Skaliotis, son of Nancy and Dr. George Skaliotis of Andover, will be a sound assistant and member of the crew. Senior Jana Zanni, daughter of Janice and Stephen Zanni of Methuen, is the company manager. The show will be directed by Christian Parker, a 1989 PA graduate and son of Edward and Karen Parker of Andover, a teaching fellow in the theater department.

The play will be performed in the Tang Theater on campus Friday and Saturday, May 26 and 27.

Approximately 40 percent of the students require financial assistance to participate in the Scotland production. The auction is the first of several fund-raising events.

A silent auction will begin at 2 p.m. The admission cost of $5 will be credited to the purchase price of any winning bid. Proxy bids will be available for those unable to attend.

The department is soliciting donations of goods or services for the auction. All donations or proceeds from auctioned items are tax-deductible. For more information, a list of items to be auctioned, or the procedure for proxy bidding, call Mr. Efinger at 749-4436.

David C. Burke, a student at St. John's Preparatory School, has been admitted to Bates College under its early decision program. Mr. Burke is the son of William and Maura Burke of 290 S. Main St.

Hilary Driscoll, a senior political science and Russian major at Williams College, is a member of its 1994-'95 Gargoyle delegation. Ms. Driscoll is the daughter of Jack and Alix Driscoll of Forbes Lane.

Hilary Driscoll

The Gargoyle Society of Williams College was founded in 1895 as an honor society to serve the Williams community. With a membership of junior and senior campus leaders and other students distinguished by their commitment to the college, Gargoyle identifies and integrates current issues of importance to students, alumni, administration, and faculty and advises college administrators.

Gargoyle has been involved in initiating campus dialogue surrounding issues such as the formation of a student college council, the abolition of fraternities, and the admission of women. This year, the Gargoyle Society concentrated on studying the status of community service on campus and looking for ways to facilitate the involvement of students.

Shannon Canavin, a 1991 graduate of Phillips Academy and a former resident of Andover, will give a senior voice recital Friday, April 28, at 8:30 p.m. at Williams Hall at New England Conservatory. The program will include music of Sances, Schumann, Respighi and Poulenc. She will be accompanied by pianist Terry Decima and harpsichordist Libor Dudas.

Admission is free. For more information, call (617) 262-1120.

Ms. Canavin is pursuing a bachelor of music degree in voice performance and theoretical studies at New England Conservatory of Music and studies voice with mezzo-soprano D'Anna Fortunato.

Elizabeth M. Canterbury, daughter of Joan and Richard Canterbury of Old South Lane, recently sang in a musical showcase at Kenyon College in Gambier, Ohio. Ms. Canterbury is a 1993 graduate of Phillips Academy.

David Carbonneau of 27 Topping Road, a food service management major, was named to the dean's list at Johnson & Wales University in Providence, R.I., for academic achievement during the winter term. Students must earn a cumulative point average of 3.4 or above to receive dean's list commendation.

Elizabeth F. Cox of Andover has been accepted for graduate studies at Antioch New England Graduate School in Keene, N.H. Ms. Cox is pursuing a master of arts degree in counseling psychology. She received a bachelor of arts degree from Plymouth State College.

Lime-Rite $2.59

Pelletized Lime-Rite reduces soil acidity and helps grass develop a lush green color. 40lb. bag.

Free pH Test!

Here's how to check the pH level of your lawn.

Grass needs proper pH to be able to absorb existing and new fertilizer nutrients. Mahoney's will test your lawn's pH level for free. Just bring in a soil sample from your lawn, and we'll do the rest.

It's easy: Dig 3-5" into the soil (when your lawn is dry if possible). Take 4 or 5 soil samples of equal amounts from different areas of your lawn. Mix samples together and bring in 1 cup soil mix in a plastic bag.

Our professionals will tell you your exact pH level and offer an exact prescription for a perfect lawn.

How to talk to your child's ed. team

The 766 PAC of Andover public schools will host the presentation called "Effective Communication Skills" Wednesday, April 26, at 7:30 p.m. The focus of this workshop is to help parents develop and hone skills needed to communicate effectively and work cooperatively with their child's educational team. Conflictresolution and skill-building will be addressed during the workshop.

The educational team is a group that includes a child's parent(s), teachers and specially trained people who help discover why a child is having difficulty, and what he or she needs to make effective progress in school.

The Federation for Children with Special Needs, the leader of this session, is an advocacy group based in Boston. It offers a wide range of resources for parents of children with special needs. The workshop they facilitated in Andover last year was one of the most popular sessions held, organizers said.

The meeting will take place in the Resource and Development Center on the third floor of the School Administration Building.

AHS PAC meeting May 1

The Andover High School Parent Advisory Council will hold a business meeting Monday, May 1, at 7:30 p.m. in the library annex.

Any parent interested in serving on the PAC board for the 1995-'96 school year should contact Kathy Hess, Valerie Jackson or the High School office.

BOSTON MARATHON

Local runners compete well

By Alix Driscoll

Jon Stableford, 50, of Phillips Academy, earned 14th place for his division, with a blistering 2:52:07 for his 14th Boston Marathon.

"I feel fine. I had hoped to do a little bit better, but I am proud of what I did. I learned a great deal about running," said Mr. Stableford, who easily qualified for next year. He said he took up running in college to get in shape for the hockey season.

"Running is beautiful. I love running around the AVIS trails, Harold Parker, the Ward Reservation, North Andover and Boxford," said Mr. Stableford.

"My best race is still in front of me," said John Greene, 36, who moved up 427 spots from last year, finishing in 3:06:17, taking two minutes off his "ugly 3:08."

"There's got to be a sub three (hours) for me on that Boston Road." He said it was a tough race.

"I am a little tired right now and I was a little disappointed that I didn't hit a sub three, but it was a slower pace this year."

At mile 13 he was running at a

2:59 pace, but encountered a strong headwind as he came out of the hills.

At about mile 17 or 18, he began to question why he was running at all, but four hours later, after the race, he was already making plans for the 100th Boston Marathon.

Mr. Greene qualified with this year's run.

The Stoneybrook Circle resident was one of many local runners, who said they were pleased with their runs in spite of a very crowded start, and first a hot headwind, then a strengthening frigid east wind blowing through the venturi canyons of the city.

Sam Nork, 30, 12 Cameron Road, led the Andover pack with 2:44:56.

day, finishing with 4:28:37, said, "For the last mile I didn't think I had anything left, but when I saw the finish the adrenaline must have kicked in and I had a burst of speed. It was really a thrill."

"I definitely began feeling sore at the hills. But when I turned onto Boylston Street, I got a burst of energy. I went through with my arms raised. I made it. It was a really good race. I said I would be thrilled to do 4:30 and I came in right where I had hoped."

Mr. Sabath said he's going to register this week for the drawing to obtain a number for next year's race.

"I've wanted to do it for many years. I'm going to try this year." So, this April, about one month past his 60th birthday, Martin Wells, 20 Belknap Drive, did just that in a bit over five hours. He said he ran 16 straight miles, but walked up the Newton hills, except for a small section, so that he could say, "I ran Heartbreak Hill."

Mr. Wells came over from England on the original Queen Elizabeth in 1961, and settled originally in Pennsylvania. He has lived in Andover for 12 years.

Brendan Sheehy, Mr. Wells' neighbor on Belknap Drive, plans to raise money for the Special Olympics program next year. This year's Boston Marathon, his seventh, was his best time at 4:43:21, but it wasn't easy.

"The last three miles were the most difficult with a cold wind right in my face. My strength was gone," he said.

"I am thrilled. I broke 3:30," said Thomas McCarron, 38. "It was a good race. I enjoyed it and found it great going over the finish line. He earned 3:28:58 in his third Boston.

"I feel great. I think I will qualify for next year," Christine Robertsen, age 58, said the morning after the big run. She said the first mile was very difficult because there was a mob of people running and the crowd closed in to make it even tighter. It took her four minutes to get to the starting line.

Later, she picked up a headwind several miles out, which intensified when she reached Boston. At about mile 23 her right leg cramped up, but she worked through it, finishing stronger in the last two miles and earning 4:06:55.

"Eric, (Ms. Robertsen's son), ran the last 10 miles with me. He was such a help picking up water for me."

Maggi Murray, 34, of North Andover, said she was the 144th woman to cross the finish line with a 3:15:50 in her first marathon. She has qualified for the 100th. She said she competed at Andover High School in the 6,000, half-mile and 600, and still holds the school half-mile record. Ms. Murray runs at the Whirlaway Track Club in Methuen.

On weekends, she has been distance training with Andover's Bill Pennington and Ann Marie Starrett, of North Andover. She works at Andover Liquors Inc.

Andover Townsman advertising manager Don Schwanenkamp finished his tenth Boston Marathon in five hours and said he felt great.

Keith Driscoll, 28, 8 Joseph St., said he is pleased. "I ran my best. My body felt good."

He did a 3:35 last year and took off 17 minutes to earn 3:18:52. He ran the hurdles at Andover High and later at Northeastern University. He will compete again next year to earn donations for the Leukemia Society.

The guts award goes to Heather Holmader, 20, 448 Lowell St., who finished with a broken leg, which snapped at mile 25. Friends helped her hobble across the line at five and one-half hours.

Other Andover finishers include: Bill Pennington, 40, 3:22:23; John Filbin, 42, 3:23:08; Lisa Doucett, 39, 3:33:37; Patrick Donahue, 46, 3:51:58; Tom McNamara, 40, 3:53:12; Beth Yacoubian, 25, 3:54:31; John Tivnan, 28, 3:56:57; David Aldrich, 38, 3:57:12; Barrett McCarthy, 50, 4:06:00; John Lynch, 22, 4:19:28; Philip Johnson, 37, 4:29:10; Carmela Taveras, 32, 4:40:19; and Sean Sullivan, 33, 4:43:21.

Amy DiAdamo, a sophomore at Middlebury College, is on the school's women's lacrosse team.

She tallied two goals in the 18-5 win over Stanford, five goals in the 17-5 win over Trinity and three goals in the 12-6 win over Connecticut College. Ms. DiAdamo is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carmine DiAdamo.

Brian Flanagan, son of David and Helen Flanagan of 12 West Knoll Road, earned his first varsity letter in ice hockey at Wesleyan University in Middletown, Conn.

The freshman was a regular at forward.

He tallied 14 scoring points, including eight goals and six assists, with one a game-winner, in the Cardinals 24 contests this winter.

Flanagan finished plus-one as he was on the ice for 18 Wesleyan goals and 17 opponents goals.

Flanagan is a 1994 graduate of Phillips Academy, where he was a four-time letterwinner in ice hockey and baseball and a two-time prep school all-star in baseball.

Flanagan is a member of the Wesleyan baseball team this spring.

Flanagan has seen action in 12 contests, mostly as a starter at second base.

He has a .263 batting average (10-of-38) with six runs scored and 12 RBIs. He has one double and two triples and a .945 fielding percentage.

Wesleyan stands 10-4 on the year and is ranked third among New England Division III teams.

Chris Hall of Andover, a senior at Muhlenberg College in Allentown, Pa., won the 100 meter and 200 meter in track at Haverford Invitational recently.

His 100 time of 10.8 seconds was one-tenth of a second off the NCAA automatic qualifying standard.

His 200 time of 22.1 seconds broke the school record of 22.7, which he set last season.

Sophomore Matt Chapin is hurling as a relief pitcher for the Bates College varsity baseball team this spring, in addition to playing third base.

The right-handed pitcher graduated from Andover High School.

Ashley McLaughlin, a third-grader at West Elementary School, became the YMCA Massachusetts State champion for Level 6, ages 11 and under at the state meet held

Ashley McLaughlin

April 1 in Westfield.

Ashley scored 34.6 all-around.

She was first in beam with a 9.2, in floor with a 9.15 and in bars with a 8.2.

She placed ninth on vault.

The Level 6 Andover/North Andover YMCA gymnastics team earned second place at the state meet.

Jackie Barry, a fifth-grader at West Elementary School, won a third-place trophy with a 33.0 at the same Massachusetts YMCA gymnastics meet in Westfield.

Her teammates, Sheri Bernstein, a fourth-grader at South Elementary School, placed fifth at the tournament with a score of 32.55, and Kelley McLaughlin, a fifth-grader at West Elementary School, secured eighth place with a score of 32.15.

Amy Fenton, a 1994 graduate of Andover High School, competed for the Mount Holyoke College tennis team at the Seven Sisters Tournament at Vassar College in New York, the weekend of April 7-9.

The Mount Holyoke College tennis team finished the season with a 6-2 record.

Softball clinic starts May 1

The Department of Community Services girls softball clinic starts Monday, May 1, at the West Middle School gym for six weeks. The cost is $49. The clinic for ages 8-11 will be Mondays and on Tuesdays for ages 12-14. The time is 6-7:30 p.m. each day. Call the DCS office, 470-38000.

THE REAL ESTATE CORNER

with Jean Fitzgerald & Pamela Lebowitz

PAY ATTENTION TO THE DETAILS

It is the little things, both positive and negative, that can make a big difference to prospective buyers when your home is for sale.

Before you list your home, go through the house and fix any loose door knobs, popped screen doors, and loose grout around the tub and shower. A coat of fresh paint can work wonders to dress up a house. Wash the windows, hang a pretty fern from the bathroom skylight, and clean out your closets. Arrange your furniture to make the room look larger, and if your rooms look cluttered, put excess pieces you don't need into storage. Increasing the wattage of your light bulbs will help brighten things up. Going the extra yard to showcase your home will pay significant dividends when it's time to show it to buyers. The less imagination people must bring with them when they look at your house, the greater your chances of selling your home quickly, and for top dollar.

For solid advice on buying or selling real estate, consult the professionals at Century 21 Carriage House. Please call us at 475-1243, or stop by our office at 10 High Street.

EARTH DAY ACTIVITIES AROUND TOWN

West Elementary students get ready for Earth Day

Students, teachers, and parents at West Elementary School have been working hard to gear up for Andover's 25th celebration of Earth Day. Last week more than 100 children came in before school to work on an Earth Day mural, which will be on display at Old Town Hall on Earth Day, Saturday, April 29.

More than 200 West students learned four Earth Day songs and practiced every morning, and 50 poets wrote original poems to recite on Earth Day.

The West Elementary Student Council designed an Earth Day T-shirt and traveled to Cyrk in Gloucester to watch the shirts being silk-screened. The T-shirts were displayed at West and more than 300 shirts were sold. Profits made on the T-shirts will go towards saving an acre of the rain forest.

To kick off the official Earth Week, on Monday, April 24, Earth Tunes, an ecological interactive singing performance will visit West for two shows.

The children will then be involved in their weekly trash-detector program of keeping their school grounds clean. Later in the week, planting will be done and recycling art will be displayed.

On Friday, each child will be given seedlings to take home. The culminating activity will be West's Saturday performance at Old Town Hall, where their hard work will be displayed and songs and poems will be shared.

Andover Chamber, Center Association promoting Earth Day

The Andover Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the Andover Center Association, will work together once again to promote local business participation in Earth Day activities.

The Earth Day festivities and town-wide clean-up will happen throughout the week of April 24.

"We would like to get local businesses more involved with the clean-up effort this year," said Nancy Hargreaves of Shawmut Bank, chamber board member and head of the chamber's Earth Day committee.

Downtown businesses will also be encouraged to participate.

"We all need to do our part to keep downtown clean during Earth Week and throughout the year," said Sean Quinn of The Strawberry Tree, chairman of the Andover Center Association.

Members of both organizations and other businesses will help with the clean-up Tuesday, April 25, or in the event of rain, Wednesday, the 26th.

For more information, call the Department of Community Services at 470-3800.

AMC/Andover to join in Earth Day festivities

The Appalachian Mountain Club Andover Committee urges everyone to take part in town's annual Earth Day celebration Saturday, April 29, by helping with trail construction and maintenance. Register with Fred Snell at 686-3647.

The Andover Committee will also be part of the expo in Old Town Hall from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Exhibits will include photos from previous Earth Day festivities and displays of energy-saving electric cars. Representatives from Harold Parker forest will hand out seedlings.

Earth Week sculpture slated for Old Town Hall

Joan Ellis, an artist with a special interest in using recycled materials, has been asked to create an original sculpture on the brick patio of Old Town Hall on Main Street in celebration of Earth Week.

The sculpture will be made of recycled materials, including metal, wood, plastic and chicken wire in the shape of Mother Nature.

Children are asked to bring plastic grocery bags to the work site to be woven through the holes in the chicken wire and tied.

Plastic and silk flowers with long stems are also needed for Mother Nature's bouquet.

Ms. Ellis has done many large scale projects, including artist-in-residence programs at elementary schools and legacy murals at Doherty Middle School. She teaches classes through the Child Care Circuit in Lawrence and volunteers at the Historical Society.

Ms. Ellis lives in Andover with her husband, Stephen, son, Peter, a sophomore at Andover High School, and daughter, Jessica, an eighth-grader at Doherty Middle School.

Weather permitting, Ms. Ellis will work on the sculpture Wednesday through Friday, April 26-28, between 10 a.m. and noon, and 1 and 3 p.m. Children of all ages and their parents are welcome to participate.

Quintet to perform at Library

The Five of Hart's" - Hart Leavitt on soprano and tenor sax, Herb Pomeroy on trumpet, Jack Senior on piano, Marshall Wood on bass and vocalist Donna Byrne - will perform a medley of greatest American songs Sunday, April 23, at 3 p.m., at Memorial Hall Library.

Tickets are free and available at the circulation desk.

The quintet's program includes the following songs: "I Love You," "Every Time We Say Good-bye," "You'd Be So

Nice to Come Home to" and "It's All Right with Me" by Cole Porter; "It Might as Well Be Spring," "My Favorite Things," "All the Things You Are" and "Love Come Back to Me" by Oscar Hammerstein; "Careless Love" and "St. Louis Blues" by W.C. Handy; "Embraceable You," "But Not

For Me," "The Man I Love" and "Nice Work If You Can Get It" by George Gershwin; "Love is the Tender Trap," "But Beautiful," "Here's That Rainy Day" and "It Could Happen to You" by Jimmy Van Heusen; and "What Am I Here For," "Isfahan," "In a Sentimental Mood" and "Caravan" by Duke Ellington.

Congratulations, Matt Rouillard on your admittance to the 218th entering class of Phillips Academy. We are proud of your accomplishments both as a scholar and athlete.

YWCA is giving Merrimack Valley professional community an opportunity to honor outstanding female contributors

Outstanding women in Merrimack Valley business, industry and professions will be honored at the Tribute to Women in Industry awards luncheon Wednesday, May 17, at Andover Country Club.

Reservations should be made by Wednesday, May 10.

The business and professional communities have been asked to select female colleagues to be recognized by the YWCA of Greater Lawrence at its 12th annual TWIN luncheon.

Honorees are women who have:

- made outstanding contributions in their respective careers;
- demonstrated their capabilities by advancing in their field or organization; and

- actively served as role models for others in their fields.

Honorary award recognition forms have been mailed to professional organizations throughout the area. Applications should be returned by Friday, April 21. Forms are available at the YWCA, 38 Lawrence St. Call 687-0331.

A committee representing a cross section of the professional community has been named to select an outstanding honoree to receive the award. All nominees will be recognized at the luncheon and receive a recognition award. Last year, Anna Sullivan of Lawrence, owner of the T.A. Sullivan Insurance Agency, received the Tribute to Women Award. Following the death of her husband, Ms. Sullivan obtained her professional licenses, while raising four small sons, and developed the firm into a multimillion dollar business, employing 11 people.

"TWIN is a celebration of the achievement of women, which also enables the YWCA to identify career role models for the young women we serve," said Pat Driscoll, chairwoman of the event.

Proceeds from the luncheon benefit Lawrence YWCA programs. Nearly 300 area women in business, professions and industry have been honored since the program's inception in 1983.

Plans are set for Crafts in The Park

Preparations are underway for the 19th annual Andover Crafts in The Park, which will be held Saturday, May 13, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. in The Park, at the corner of Chestnut and Bartlett streets.

According to organizers, "This first outdoor show of the spring is a favorite of both craftspeople and shoppers. Since Mother's Day is Sunday, May 14, Crafts in The Park is an ideal place to find hand-crafted gifts to suit the tastes of all moms."

The show is organized by Andover AFS. Proceeds fund scholarships for students going abroad and aid foreign students and their local host families. The rain date is Sunday, May 14.

SOCIAL NOTEBOOK

The Andover Historical Society invites the public to an exhibit-opening reception Wednesday, April 26, at 6 p.m. in its Meeting Room Gallery.

"SIT! Portrayals of People's Pets" is an exhibition of paintings, sculpture, photographs and memorabilia featuring dogs, cats or any animal that shares a relationship with people. Examples include: more than 100 dog figurines collected in the 1930s; 19th-century paintings of owners and their pets; hunting scenes; early photographs of Andover; snapshots of local well-known animals; and work created by contemporary artists. Admission is free. The museum is located at 97 Main St. For more information, call 475-2236.

Victorian Treats, a shop located at 68 Park St. specializing in collectibles, gifts and its own hand-made English toffee, will host an open house Saturday, May 6, from noon to 5 p.m. Lisa Stubbs of Lilo Hats will bring her new spring/summer collection of one-of-a-kind hats, each one hand-blocked on antique wooden hat blocks. "Lilo combines her knowledge of art and theater to produce a whimsical mix of past and present styles," sponsors said. Tea and goodies will be served all afternoon.

Campsites at Harold Parker State Forest are open for the season. The cost for camping is $6 per night. Additional charges for electrical hook-up, water, sewer and other camping-related expenses were cut in half last year when Gov. William Weld announced a 50-percent reduction in park fees.

To reserve a campsite at Harold Parker, call 686-3391.

For information on visitor services, or to receive a free copy of Camping in Massachusetts State Forests and Parks, maps and brochures, call toll-free (within Massachusetts) 1-800-0569.

Leslie Frost, Helga Frazzette and the horticulture committee of the Andover Garden Club were winners at the New England Spring Flower Show, held last month in Boston.

The Jean-Marie Parkes Creativity Award (President's Award) was given to Ms. Frost. The award is given to the design judged to be the most creative interpretation of the schedule. All competitive entries in the Garden Club Federation Design Division of the flower show are eligible.

Ms. Frost interpreted "The Twenty-first Century" using pincushion protea, artichokes, monstera leaves, wisteria vine and stainless steel pipes. Her design was entitled "New Breed."

Ms. Frazzette won a blue ribbon in the Table Class Division, the class "Celebration." She created a table design: "A Functional Table for Two" with a theme for the 21st century, entitled "Close Encounters." Ms. Frazzette used white calla lilies and variegated flax leaves, black dishes and a gold tablecloth with a black underskirt.

The horticulture committee, chaired by Rosemary Halloran, won a blue ribbon in the Structure Class of the Amateur Horticulture Competition presented by the Mass. Horticulture Society. The committee created a plant room (western exposure) using an heirloom planter for inspiration to create an indoor garden reminiscent of a Victorian conservatory.

Understanding Chiropractic

by Mark F. DeLorenzo, D.C.

TREATING PATIENTS OF ALL AGES

Chiropractors not only treat more than just back problems, they also treat patients of all ages. In fact, everyone from newborns to those in their 90s can derive benefits from chiropractic treatment. Children and teenagers, in particular, may come to the chiropractor with complaints of aches and pains that may otherwise be attributed to "growing pains." However, a thorough examination may reveal a condition in its initial stages that might lead to chronic problems later in life, if left uncorrected. Scoliosis (curvature of the spine), for example, can be easy to treat and correct early on, but can lead to later problems without treatment. Even birth can prove to be traumatic to the spine and be the cause for treatment.

At DeLORENZO CHIROPRACTIC GROUP, we practice gentle and effective chiropractic care, designed to eliminate any spinal misalignment and the nerve irritation that it can bring. We're dedicated to making you feel better, we're here to help you. You have nothing to lose. Remember, good health is maintained from within, not by external medications. Let us help you get and stay healthy. We're located at 15 Central Street, where we treat our patients as individuals - every patient we see here is unique. Please call 475-5042 to schedule an appointment.

P.S. Chiropractic may prove useful in treating conditions in the elderly for which they presently find it necessary to take medication.

Consider These Thoughts

by Garry A. Burke

WORSHIP

It can hardly be denied that there is a sense of order and justice that pervades our world and beyond. While we might get an immediate sense that disorder is the currency of the day, this perception is usually guided more by a narrow perspective or misguided judgment than by objective reasoning of faith. As William Jennings Bryan once made the case, "Man is a religious being; the heart instinctively seeks for a God. Whether he worships on the banks of the Ganges, prays with his face upturned to the sun, kneels toward Mecca or, regarding all space as a temple, communes with the Heavenly Father according to the Christian creed, man is essentially devout."

As funeral directors, we consider pre-arrangements to be a loving act. It also gives the family a chance to have some input in making the plans. Pre-arrangement simply means giving prior consideration to funeral needs keeping in mind budget and the type of service. It prompts a healthy consideration of the subject of death and answers many questions for those who must make the final decisions. For more information, call BURKE FUNERAL HOME at 475-5200, or see us at 390 North Main Street. For your convenience, we handle the paperwork associated with insurance and Veteran's benefits.

ON CAMPUS

Kelley of 51 Marilyn Road, has been named to the dean's list at Pace University for the 1994 fall semester. The first-year business major at Pace's Pleasantville, N.Y., campus is a 1994 graduate of Andover High School.

The University of Massachusetts Lowell is forming an honors program to be in place by September, but some students are rising to the challenge already. George Mathew and Jeremy M. Parker of Andover are enrolled in one or more of the honors level courses currently available in chemistry, physics and calculus. Additional opportunities will be available as the full honors program is implemented under the auspices of University College. The program is directed by professor Eric Sheldon and supervised by an honors council of faculty. It follows the guidelines of the National College Honors Council, which has accepted Lowell as a full member.

The program is designed to keep classes small, so students get more individual attention and advising, and to facilitate field trips and special programs. An enriched social and cultural environment is also planned. Students who meet program requirements will receive an honors diploma along with their bachelor's degree.

Betsy Tanin, daughter of James and Arlette Tanin of Andover, is a senior in the advertising and graphic design department at Cazenovia College in upstate New York. As a component of her senior project course, she is designing vehicle graphics for U-Haul, an international company based in Phoenix, Ariz. Ms. Tanin will graduate in May with a bachelor of fine arts degree.

Betsy Tanin

"Keep an eye open for Betsy's design on a U-Haul vehicle within the year," the director of her program said.

Amy Anderson of Andover has been appointed to the Regis College

Amy Anderson

"Night at the Pops" committee. The 59th annual Regis College "Night at the Pops" will be held at Symphony Hall in Boston on Saturday, May 13, at 8 p.m. Sponsored by the Regis College Guild and Regis College Alumnae Association, the concert will benefit the Regis College Scholarship Fund. This event is open to the public. Ticket prices range from $40 to $65. For more information, call (617) 893-1800, Ext. 2520.

Anthony M. Pellegrino and Derrick A. Todd, both of Andover, received master of business administration degrees from New Hampshire College in Manchester, N.H., at its March 25 commencement ceremony.

Kristin McAllister of 8 Korinthian Way has been named to the dean's list at Tulane University School of Architecture in New Orleans, La., for the 1994 fall semester. The third-year student is the daughter of Richard and Janet McAllister.

Phillips Academy teacher follows blankets to Kobe

he had been trying to call somebody in Kobe. He couldn't get through for some time. Finally an operator came on and told him there had been a devastating earthquake, and that lines were out. He started calling all over Japan, but to no avail. "I didn't get through to anybody," he said.

Finally, a friend called from Yokohama to tell him she was all right.

"That was a week later. She was OK, but her house had been completely demolished."

During an all-school meeting the previous Friday in Cochran Chapel, Mr. Rolbin asked for a moment of silence for the people of Kobe. After the meeting, students and faculty approached him and said they'd like to do something for the earthquake victims. Then he received the call from his friend.

"She explained that 300,000 people had been rendered homeless by this thing."

She had friends who were sleeping in their cars. It was winter in Kobe and, being about the same latitude as North Carolina, it was cold.

"So blankets seemed to be the thing they needed most."

He liked the idea of blankets, "because blankets can only be used for one thing, to keep people warm."

He spoke to Michael Wall, director of student activities at PA, and the drive was begun. Mr. Rolbin credits Mr. Wall's organizational skills with the drive's success.

"We put a box out in front of Dickie's (school receptionist Dickie Thiras) desk," in the lobby of George Washington Hall, and put signs up reading, "Blankets for Kobe."

"Within a day we had somewhere around 80 blankets."

In five days they had around 400 blankets and coats. At first they had little luck in getting an express carrier to fly the donations to Japan for free, but after getting the story in the papers, including the Townsmen, and on radio and television, they were able to sell two companies on the benefits of good press.

"We didn't have any money and wanted to mail them by express mail so they would get there quick."

Yamato Transport of Japan and Japan Airlines agreed to ship the 13-14 refrigerator size boxes to Kobe.

A friend in the City Office in Kobe, which is the equivalent of city hall, made a connection with the earthquake relief organization and arranged for the distribution on that end.

That could have been the end of his involvement for Mr. Rolbin, but he had enough frequent flier miles saved from previous trips to Japan to get a free flight. So during spring break, from March 14-26, he flew to Japan to see what was happening in Kobe.

Destruction upsetting

He flew into Osaka and took a train

This is the house where Cyrus Rolbin's friend lived and where he stayed a year before the earthquake.

to as close as he could get to Kobe. On the ride he was looking for damage and saw small cracks in walls and buildings and wondered if it was damage from the quake. He felt great excitement as he tried to anticipate what he would see, but nothing could have prepared him for what he found.

"When I got to the last station, there was so much destruction it was upsetting," he said.

Tarps covered roofs of houses, houses leaned against each other and piles of wood and debris littered the streets. And amid the rubble kids rode bicycles and Japanese men in business suits stepped over broken wood and rock on the way to work.

He said the Japanese people, so orderly, precise and meticulous, trying to go on with daily life made him think of a machine, once lubed, smooth running and powerful, now broken with sand in the gears still trying to keep going.

The friend who had called him a week after the quake to tell him she was OK took him to her home, which she had returned to for the first time just three days earlier - to clean it in preparation for his visit. The home was heavily damaged. The sliding doors inside were broken and everything that had been on the walls or shelves was down. But she had tidied up a couple of rooms and put a bouquet of flowers on the table. He could see through a crack in one slider that she had closed off one room and piled all the debris in it, to make the home appear as he would have remembered it. He'd had dinner there during his last visit to Kobe one year ago.

When he called his friend in the City Office, a reporter from the Kobe Shimbun, the city's largest newspaper, was there waiting to talk with him.

Kobe had received a lot of donations, but none so large from a school as the one from PA. And with Kobe residents not having a lot of good news to read, the paper was trying to focus on stories on donors that would help the people feel good, like they were not alone in their battle to rebuild.

Mr. Rolbin visited several buildings that had been converted to shelters.

"Any building that had a decent amount of space, that isn't about to come down, is being used right now as a shelter."

Still rebuilding

While Kobe is no longer front-page news, the city is far from recovered. There are still about 100,000 people homeless, according to Mr. Rolbin.

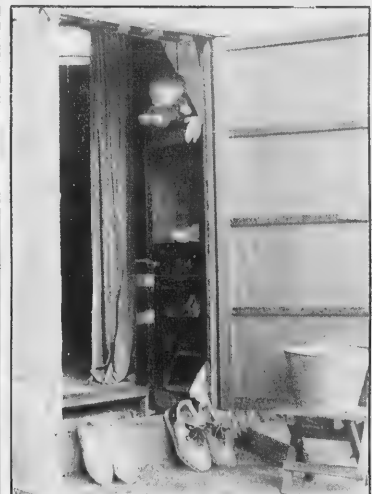

Children's playgrounds are still tent villages. Soup kitchens are common where "people line up for food, just like at Bread and Roses in Lawrence."

In some areas, music is played under tarps as entertainment for the homeless.

"There's a real kind of Bohemian feel to it."

This is an especially difficult time for Kobe. The Japanese school year ends in January and begins in April, so for the past two months college and university students from all over Japan had been in Kobe working in the soup kitchens and shelters. Now all those students are going back to school.

"So right now, there's a problem with staffing the shelters and food kitchens."

Shoes placed outside the entrance to a temporary shelter in a tent village in Kobe are an example of how the city's residents are trying to reinstitute some normalcy in the wake of the January quake.

In mid March, two months after the quake, this broken building in downtown Kobe still had not been dealt with. According to Cyrus Rolbin, Japanese teacher at Phillips Academy, so many buildings need to be taken down that workers just haven't been able to get to them all.

Yes to historic district; no to revised leash law

chairman.

The bylaw will go to the state attorney general for approval, before appointments are made to the seven-member Ballardvale Historic District by the town manager. This commission will review new construction, alterations and demolition in the district. (See related article.)

Earlier in the evening, voters turned down a proposal to install an irrigation system at Ballard Vale Green at a cost of $10,000.

"It was a piece of ground that deserved more than it was getting," said Richard Bowen, of 12 Bannister Road, who submitted the warrant article. "During the summer months, Ballard Vale Green becomes Ballard Vale Brown."

The triangular-shaped property at the center of Ballardvale is the site of a monument dedicated to 10 town servicemen who lost their lives in war.

"With the coming of a historic district, Ballard Vale Green may be the crown jewel," said Mr. Bowen.

Residents defeated the bid, questioning the high costs for irrigating the green and its priority with respect to other town projects.

Dogs stay leashed

Defeated was an amendment to the town's leash law, which would have allowed the more obedient dogs in Andover to be under voice control instead of the required six-foot leash.

"Currently it's illegal for the dog to get a good workout anywhere in town," George Kunhardt, of Summer Street, said about the leash law. "That was written with the premise that no one wants to meet your pet."

Opposed to the change was Wayne Nader, town animal control officer. He was concerned it would be difficult to enforce the proposal, and he was concerned about possible rabies infections and the potential for dog bites and vehicle accidents.

"Under the new proposal I'm going to have to be judge and jury," said Officer Nader. He said the proposal would mean having to "wait and see" if a dog was going to "come over and sniff you and your children or come over and take a bite out of you."

Proponents argued that dogs need exercise and that the lack of exercise can shorten a dog's life.

Discussion became heated, with opponents voicing their objections so loudly that they could be heard out in the parking lot. But in the end, this final proposal of April Town Meeting met defeat.

Other action

Voters spent the most money of the evening, $125,000, to extend a newly-installed sewer line servicing new homes on Country Club Lane to West Elementary School. The extension will eliminate the need for the current pumping station, which is costly to maintain and repair, according to Bob McQuade, public works director.

Another $100,000 was approved by voters to help speed fire and police vehicles on emergency calls through town. Town emergency vehicles will be fitted with an emitter that will signal the traffic lights to turn green, allowing quicker passage. The system should speed response town wide, said Jim Cuticchia, fire lieutenant.

Also approved by residents were:

- A bylaw requiring caps on new and rebuilt chimneys, to prevent wildlife from entering homes. Submitted by Officer Nader, this will help prevent chimney fires and the spread of rabies, as well as curtailing incidents such as "coming home to a raccoon sitting on the kitchen table" he said;

- Cat vaccinations against rabies, to conform with state regulations;

- Abbot well site improvements, at a cost of $10,000;

- Appointment of an associate member to the Planning Board.

Defeated by voters were three proposals submitted by John Doyle, 40 Reservation Road, requiring the taping of Board of Selectmen and Finance Committee meetings, and requiring selectmen to provide an official copy of the town warrant to all voters.

What does the new historic district mean?

By Alix Driscoll

Ruth Sharpe summed it up. "This is the best way to do it without infringing on our independence."

The venerable former Ballardvale librarian and lifelong resident of the old mill village on the Shawsheen River urged the passage of the Ballardvale Historic District, and enough voters on the sparsely attended third night of Town Meeting agreed. Article 70 passed, 168-74, a few more than the required two-thirds.

"The purpose of the article is to protect and preserve a historical small-town New England 19th century mill village," said Tim Barash, of 8 High Vale Lane, spokesman for the Ballardvale Historic District study committee.

"More than 100 (Massachusetts) communities have historic districts, including Boxford, Methuen and North Andover," said Karen Herman, chairwoman of Andover's Historical Commission. "Andover's historic neighborhoods remain vulnerable to unsightly additions or demolition."

Although the specific guidelines will not be set up until the BHD commission members are appointed by the town manager, the historical district bylaw gives the commission review over new exterior construction, reconstruction and demolition of structures. The commission determines if the proposed exterior renovation or construction will be "appropriate for or compatible with the preservation or protection of the Historic District," and issues a certificate of appropriateness.

Proponents say the commission will offer advice and encourage compatible design. The bylaw specifies a grievance procedure. It recognizes hardship.

Mr. Barash hopes the BHD commission will be a resource to the community, "not doing things to, but working with the community."

Anything that is reversible is exempt, including interior renovations, landscaping, terraces, ordinary maintenance, color of paint, color of roof materials and temporary signs. Dish antennae and solar collectors require commission review.

Houses could increase in value. Chris Outwin, 4 High Vale Road, said the value of homes within the King's Highway Historic District on Cape Cod increased 300 percent in 10 years.

The opposition was mainly confined to neighbors on Tewksbury Street who now live within the new district.

"Too little, too late," said Angela Zinsmeister, of 34 Tewksbury St.

"Many architectural differences... wouldn't work," said Nat Machain, of 31 Tewksbury St.

Brian Hoyt, of 30 Tewksbury St., was concerned about how hardship cases would be handled.

But Sherron Heller, 48 Tewksbury St., reminded Town Meeting many of the buildings are commercially zoned and asked for a positive vote. "We don't want a Shawsheen Plaza. That would not fit into our neighborhood."

If there was a surprise it was the lack of support by the Planning Board.

"The main concern is hardship," said Michael Miller, Planning Board chairman, speaking for the board, which took no position. He advocated the inclusion of hardship regulations.

Hardship cases can be handled on a case-by-case basis, said Ms. Herman.

The next step

The next step is to finish an architectural database of the residences and other buildings in the newly created historic district for the Massachusetts Historical Commission and seek approval of the state attorney general. Much of the paper survey was done in 1980 when the Ballardvale area was enrolled in the National Register, said Mr. Barash.

Then, the town manager, with the approval of the Board of Selectmen, will appoint seven members and two alternates to the Ballardvale Historic District Commission, which will begin to develop design guidelines for the district. It is likely the commission will incorporate rules from both the Department of the Interior and the town of Billerica, which has a similar historic mill district.

"Whenever possible all members shall be residents and owners of property in the district," said Mr. Barash. When he put his conviction in the form of an amendment to Article 70, voters agreed.

A second amendment, which passed, excluded four properties from the district boundaries - three behind St. Joseph Church on High Vale Road, and Cronin's Ice Cream at 15 Dale St.

Opportunity fleeting for AHS teacher

By Neil Fater

School officials seeking to prove they are operating with a tight budget can always point to the case of Katharine Horne.

Ms. Horne, an Andover High School social studies teacher, was one of 13 college and high-school teachers granted a prestigious Department of Education Award to study in the Czech Republic for five weeks. But she might turn the grant down because Andover officials say they can't pay both her full salary and the substitute teacher who will replace her. Ms. Horne said she will not accept the grant without her full salary.

Educators now are trying to pull together the necessary funds to pay the substitute's salary. The Department of Education grant covers the cost of Ms. Horne's flight and her room and board, and, if all goes well, the school system will pay her normal salary, said Tom Meyers, president of the teachers union.

"It's not a lot of money when you look at the benefit coming back," said Mr. Meyers. "It's not a budget-busting item in any way, shape or form."

"I know we have explored several independent areas in hopes of coming up with the money," Dick Collins, social studies department head, said

'It's not a lot of money when you look at the benefit coming back. It's not a budget-busting item in any way, shape or form.'

Tuesday. "We consider it a big honor that she was selected for this."

The Andover Parent Advisory Committee has donated money for this cause. There are several hundred dollars available in the social studies account, and other avenues continue to be explored.

"Groups are making contributions, budget funds are being re-examined. There's movement in a positive direction," Ms. Horne said recently. "The spirit is optimistic."

But time is running out. Ms. Horne has already received an extension from the government and must provide government officials with an answer within the next few weeks.

Mr. Meyers, Ms. Horne and other teachers came before the School Committee back on March 14 to plead Ms. Horne's case.

"I'm sure you can appreciate what a dramatic time it is, five years after the falling of the Berlin Wall," said Ms.

Horne. "I'll be working 100 percent on behalf of (the Andover schools). I'd like you to view this as a long-term investment."

Ms. Horne said she will share the experience with her colleagues and students when she returns.

Chuck Wettergreen, a member of the professional development committee, said he helped organize a petition to show the staff's support for Ms. Horne's cause. Dick Collins said he was willing to donate social studies department money set aside for teacher conventions. Mr. Meyers cautioned the committee about the effect a rejection could have on teachers' morale and on government agencies who might think twice before awarding another grant to Andover.

"If it's known that Andover isn't going to support grants, it's really cutting off your nose to spite your face," he said later.

"There's no doubt and I think we understand the support. The issue is finances," said Dick Muller, then School Committee chairman. "It has nothing to do with merit. The problem we have is the budget."

More than a month has passed since that meeting, and Andover educators still are trying to scrape together enough to pay for a substitute teacher.

Finishing a marathon

Our heroes and heroines this week are some Andover residents, like Maggi Murray, 144th woman to finish Monday's Boston Marathon, (in a breezing 3:15), but also 60-year-old Martin Wells, who finished his first marathon Monday in 5:06.

Also our hero is Jerry Sabath, who finished his first marathon Monday, in 4:28. Then there is the Townsmen's own advertising manager, Don Schwanekamp, who also finished Monday, in five hours, and we can attest to the fact that he was walking, albeit slowly, Tuesday at work.

Why do a marathon? Why go to all that trouble to press your endurance and body to its max? Why indeed. Because you can, that's why. And because it's there to accomplish, that's why.

Setting a goal, and training to attain it are thrilling accomplishments, and finishing a marathon must be one of life's more memorable events.

Monday's marathoners ran, walked, even crawled the 26 miles, 385 yards. Some people "run" marathons that consist of just getting out of bed in the morning, or walking five feet from a wheelchair, or getting through a debilitating illness. Life is full of marathons, trials and accomplishments.

Congratulations to those who ran in Monday's race. Those of us on the sidelines admire the finishers.

How to write

Logo change would strengthen AHS spirit

Editor, Townsmen:

I am writing in response to a letter you printed last week regarding the Golden Warriors symbol. According to Al Marotta, the controversy over the use of a Native American as a logo for Andover High School's sports teams is an "upsurge of politically correct toadyism." It is true that it would be considered politically correct to change the symbol, but I don't think political correctness or a "want of attention for herself or her pet cause" were motives for Ms. Dunning when she brought up this violation of her civil rights.

Al Marotta stated that if we called our sports teams the "Redskins" it would be "inappropriate" because it "needlessly singles out a racial characteristic." However, the name Warriors needlessly singles out only one small part of the Native American culture. It classifies all people of this descent as aggressive and fierce, ignoring all other aspects of their traditions, and glorifying a part of their culture that no longer exists.

This letter also insisted that "you are not putting anyone down by calling a sports team Chiefs, Braves, or Warriors." If that is so, then why were Ms. Dunning and others offended by this name? I believe they felt put down.

Al Marotta is sure that Ms. Dunning is the only person who has been offended by the Warriors symbol. But that is not true. Others have been made to feel uncomfortable, but only she was courageous enough to speak out in order to make a number of people in our community more at ease. I would like to commend Ms. Dunning for doing that which opened our eyes to our own ignorance. This is a true example of the pride and school spirit that is represented in the Golden Warriors symbol. I believe it is not the mascot itself that gave us this pride, but it has been created over the years by the students and great leaders like Ms. Dunning. Whatever symbol is chosen to represent AHS doesn't matter because our pride and spirit can continue to be the same.

A change in Andover High School's mascot can only strengthen the "individuality and outspokenness" that Al Marotta says would be lost if we omitted the logo. It would make every citizen of Andover more willing to express who they are without having to feel threatened or ashamed of their heritage. It would make every member of the community more secure in the town where they live. Most importantly it would encourage others to follow the lead of Ms. Dunning and speak out against racial stereotypes of Native Americans and all people whose differences are important to the diversity of our community. Our first step must be to keep Andover's pride and spirit, but change the Warriors symbol.

Susan Dalton answers last week's edit

By Susan Dalton

The April 13 editorial entitled "Unanswered questions" requires a response because it is both querulous and interspersed with misinformation. It is my opinion that the editorial is neither intended nor does it accomplish its theme of objective inquiry. Instead, it serves only to inflame those who do not know the facts by presenting selective information, fueled by such phrases as, "we can not sit still any longer," "residents have the right..." "School Committee disregard (of) the parents," "parents feel disenfranchised" and finally the rhetorical question addressed to the School Committee, "Who do you represent, yourselves or those who elected you?"

As a member of the School Committee I ask that my remarks be placed in an op-ed column to avoid editorializing or cutting. The School Committee is being asked to provide answers to questions which have already been answered but not reported; therefore, the position of the editor and "people who will not go on the record" is simply disingenuous.

As you know the School Committee meets on the first and third Tuesdays of the month and at such other times as may be necessary. The press or town boards and committees complete?

In an effort to assist my fellow townspeople I address the following issues with answers:

Personal actions: The personnel files of employees of the town are confidential. I find it extremely disingenuous of the editor to suggest otherwise.

Search firm: This question was posed and answered several times in the presence of your reporter. Your parent paper wrote an editorial suggesting the School Committee's job was to perform the search process ourselves. Obviously they were aware of our discussions.

Search committee: The School Committee appointed the search committee. We requested review of the applicant pool and a manageable list of qualified candidates to be produced for the School Committee. The School Committee did not dictate the manner in which they deliberated. State law permits the preliminary screening process to take place in private to protect confidentiality of the initial applicant pool. The search is aware of our meeting schedule and is present at our meetings. The specific questions asked by the editor have all been addressed at one or several of these meetings. As the editor, are you communicating with your reporters who return to the paper with complete coverage of the agenda for your information, or is their reporting "selective," thereby denying you, the editor, the information you seek, or have you chosen to be selective in the information reported? In short, is the coverage of the School Committee meetings, and oth-

LETTERS

Letter disturbed writer

by Mr. Al Marotta concerning the Andover High logo controversy caught my eye. Being an advocate of changing the logo, I found the letter to be rather disturbing because of its myopic and often arrogant views.

First of all, I would like to know if Mr. Marotta, having already accused her of "having a chip on her shoulder" and "trying to get attention for herself," has ever met or talked to Ms. Dunning before. I have a feeling the answer is no. Well, for your information, Mr. Marotta, you can ask any of Ms. Dunning's students, past or present, and they will tell you that she is a compassionate and fun-loving teacher with a wonderful sense of humor. Perhaps that's why she just recently received the "Teacher of the Year" award, an award given annually by vote of the student body to the teacher who best exemplifies the qualities of superb educator.

Secondly, all this logo controversy is neither Ms. Dunning's avaricious way of gaining attention for herself nor is it a plea for political correctness. Rather, it is a call for us to reconsider our system of morals. The significance of changing the logo exceeds the mere act of removing it. By changing it, we will be taking a vital step toward humanity for all. By keeping it, we will only be heading in the opposite direction.

Lastly, according to his letter, Mr. Marotta states that as an Italian, he would not "mind having the Andover sports teams called the Padrones or Roman Legionaries or even Mussolini's Retreating Misfit." I am glad that he is so indifferent to having high-school students ignorantly portray people of his own heritage as their team mascot.

Personally, being of Asian descent, I would be offended if a sports team was called Mao's Red Guards or the Nationalists or any appellation that refers to my ancestry. I would not enjoy watching such a team parade around with the "slit-eyes" stereotypical of Asians, mimicking a language of which it has no knowledge.

There is just no need to employ the name of a group of people as the name of a sports team; it is simply unethical and condescending. I have a great amount of respect and sense of pride for my heritage. Consequently, I would not like to see high school students or anyone for that matter deride it (whether they mean to or not) by ignorantly trying to imitate my people and our culture.

The same holds true for the Native Americans. Ms. Dunning's request for a logo change is not a matter of self-pity or of a "wholesale, self-recriminating, politically correct cultural housecleaning," as claimed by Mr. Marotta. She, too, is proud of her heritage and would like to preserve her culture in a dignified manner. Certainly, that does not mean having uneducated students adorned with feathers and painted faces mimicking Indian war dances at sporting events. What is sacred to her and her people should not be tarnished and abused by us. Furthermore, our lack of knowledge and harmful intent is by no means a justifiable excuse for our ignorant and defamatory behavior.

To respect a group of people, one must also respect its culture, and to respect its culture, one must also respect its beliefs. Without respect, there can be no understanding, and without understanding, there can be no progress. As we head into the 21st century, we can easily set a precedent for compassion toward all. Or, just as easily, we can set one for compassion toward none but ourselves. The choice is ours to make and it begins with this. Vote yes to changing the Golden Warrior logo.

Stunned by Sam Campbell's resignation

Editor, Townsmen:

At first, I was stunned to read the story in the March 23 Townsmen about Sam Campbell's resignation. Later, on Tuesday, March 28, when I watched the School Committee's deliberations on cable television, I was saddened. Many of us remember 20 years ago when we had School Committee meetings that lasted into the wee hours and we all went home exhausted from spewing vocal vitriol all over each other. We remember the marches, the banners, the petitions, the endless telephone conversations, the bumper stickers (Integrity is a Basic Skill), and the wasted emotional energy that only served to polarize opinion. None of our children was well served during that period.

All I could think of as I watched the School Committee meeting was "deja vu all over again." I listened to those parents who came to ask for an explanation of Dr. Campbell's "resignation" that would help them to understand why someone whose acknowledged success – by students, parents, faculty and peers – at turning around an extremely negative situation would leave at this point in his career. It clearly didn't make sense to them and, frankly, it makes no sense to anyone who spends 30 seconds thinking about it. Why would a 60-year-old man, close to the end of his career, suddenly opt to leave? The only "obvious" answer is that he wouldn't, unless his contract was not going to be renewed.

In my opinion, the administration's response to those parents who attended the meeting on the 28th was weak and really not acceptable. It leaves me, as a viewer and a voter, with the uncomfortable impression that not only have I not heard the truth, but I probably have been deliberately misled. It also leaves me with the suspicion that there may be hidden agendas that, if disclosed, I and others might feel to be in conflict with the best interests of our youth. I turned off my television set that Tuesday night with a disturbing sense of unease.

Now, almost two weeks later, I remain troubled by what is happening, both by the loss of a fine school administrator, for reasons still unclear, and by the mistrust that action prompts about the selection process for a new school superintendent. If there are legitimate reasons why the contract of a respected principal is not going to be renewed, the residents and voters of Andover are entitled to know what they are – preferably before some ill-advised scheme becomes reality – but better now than never.

My sense is that these issues aren't just a passing concern that is being expressed; it is far deeper than that. There are a lot of us old war horses out here who have felt more or less comforted by the idea that we could be more distant observers of school affairs now that our children are grown. None of us really want to get back in harness to monitor every School Committee meeting, but recent actions confirm what happens in the absence of vigilance. When someone of competence, character and achievement is let go summarily, the ripple effect on institutional morale is profound.

In the short time Sam and Helen Campbell have lived in Andover, they have put down deep roots. They are not unknown in this community; they are known, they are admired, they are respected and they will be missed by people who will not forget why and how they left. What occurs to me at this moment is the phrase, "All that is required for evil to triumph is for good men to remain silent." I can assure you they won't.

Why is Campbell leaving?

Editor, Townsmen:

I, like many others who have dealt with him, would like to know why principal Sam Campbell is leaving West Middle School. I know that when a public figure leaves, the true reasons behind his or her doing so often remain hidden. In Sam's case, I would prefer to believe that his departure was committee responded to your questions by letter dated April 6. I asked on April 11 whether the School Committee could receive the screening committee's "pink sheets" for the five finalists.

The hiring process (re: superintendent): The School Committee has discussed the process in depth on two occasions, April 3 and April 11. The press was present on both occasions. Interviewing candidates is neither a new nor a unique process to the school system. Many people currently in the system, both parents and staff, are familiar with and participated in the selection of the previous superintendent and other administrators. Why is the paper not reporting on the very issues you claim are of such interest?

Redistricting: The School Committee did not disregard any comments from the community on this matter. We received and acknowledged letters, telephone calls and public comment at each of the following meetings, Oct. 18, 1994; Nov. 1, 1994; Nov. 15, 1994; Jan. 3, 1995; Jan. 17, 1995; and Jan. 20, 1995. The fifth meeting was an open forum at Memorial Hall Auditorium. All meetings were posted and your reporter was present. Our agenda provides ample opportunity for people to speak either under the heading citizen input (subjects not on scheduled agenda) or any other item on the agenda as it is reached and discussed by the committee.

Why are you suggesting that disagreement or a dispute with an action of the School Committee means the School Committee "disregarded" the input given? The misinformation you provide your readership in this regard is a disservice.

Disenfranchisement: Disenfranchisement means the deprivation of one's legal right to vote. No one in this town has been deprived of their right to vote. School Committee members, as elected officials, also exercise their right to vote. Perhaps you and those who will not go "on the record" have a problem with that.

I have a problem with the inferences and innuendoes, misinformation, no information, and obfuscation of information that appear throughout the referenced editorial. Your final question is disingenuous. I believe that I was elected by people who know and understand my upbringing, education and philosophical views. I have and will continue to act in my capacity to the best of my ability. In my opinion, the tenor of your editorial reflects more upon the writer and those who will not go "on the record" than it does on me and the School Committee. The apparent inability or unwillingness of the paper to report news and issues of Andover is a disservice to us all.

truly voluntary; if not, I feel very sad for the school and the children it serves.

For my youngest child, our third to pass through the school, the seventh grade at West Middle presented what could euphemistically be called a challenge.

Sam Campbell and I saw quite a bit of each other that year. He did all the right things, even to the point of attending - and playing referee for - a parent-teacher conference or two. Throughout our dealings with each other, he was invariably fair and competent, and he displayed a fundamental respect for all parties - parents, teachers and students - involved in an issue.

Sam seems to have a refreshing ability to judge a child's action while not judging the child. He also has a gentlemanly but wry sense of humor. From where I sit, he has been a ray of light - and reason - in that crowded and physically unappealing school.

So why is he leaving? I can only speculate. Perhaps, as sometimes happens, he is too good at what he does to be permitted to continue to do it. Perhaps he is too secure as a person to play games or to curry political favor. I don't know - but I do know that Andover has been better for Sam Campbell's presence. I also know that the school's loss, in his leaving, will be the students' loss.

Do we really have so many excellent people in our school system that we can afford to lose one?

Ranking is irrelevant

Editor, Townsmen:

Some of the questions you seem to think need answering may need further airing (editorial April 13), but there is one that needs none. Based on the comments already printed, the reporting on the original charge to the committee and my experience having served on previous Andover schools executive search committees, the answer is that the search committee usually has a numerical ranking and that ranking is always irrelevant after the search committee's charge has been fulfilled.

Preliminary search committees are given a long list of objective criteria to use in selecting those candidates who most closely meet the posted required qualifications. The finalists will usually be the top scorers on the matrix based on those criteria, but the person with the highest first-round score (and in this case second-round as well) does not automatically become the best candidate. The search committee members may or may not have individual preferences, but the committee as a whole would commit a serious error if it did anything more than prepare and pass on an unranked list of the requested number of candidates it felt most closely matched the posted requirements.

The job of the School Committee is to review the search committee's efforts, select, interview and further investigate all final candidates as equals before choosing one or rejecting all and starting over again.

SHED writes of regrets to the Youth Council

Editor, Townsmen:

Dear members of the Andover Youth Council:

It is with regret that I'm writing this letter; I was hoping our partnership would be a long and fulfilling one. I have thoroughly enjoyed working with you on the various aspects of this project. I think it is a travesty that the town did not support the youth center concept.

Most importantly, though, I want to commend all of you, the young people who were connected with the project. Your open-minded attitude about the merger of children and teens, your well-thought-out plans for the concepts, programming, activities and design of the building, and your commitment and dedication to making things better for your peers has been absolutely outstanding.

Your understanding of the necessity for a fiscally secure partner, your presentations before the selectmen, town businessmen and Town Meeting, and your restraint and self-control in the face of uninformed, opinionated adults showed a maturity well beyond your years.

I commend you, I respect you, and I hope that you will continue trying to make this world a better place for those who follow. It's worth the effort because sometimes it really is successful. And without people who try to make change and move forward, nothing would ever get accomplished.

Youth effort on center: A new beginning

Editor, Townsmen:

The Andover Youth Council sincerely thanks all those who turned out to support our efforts to build a community youth center. Those involved know that this has not been a half-hearted effort, but one involving the dedication and support of many tireless individuals.

We realize that this past Town Meeting was not a loss for the youth movement, but a new beginning. It addressed the issues facing our youth and heightened the awareness of many community members. In this respect it can be regarded as a successful experience. This has been a tremendous learning experience and is looked at as simply another hurdle, not the end of the race.

Now that we have heard our opponents' concerns, we invite anyone who has problems with the community youth center proposal to bring their problem and a solution to the Youth Council. Our goal is to incorporate as much community involvement as possible and we are looking for volunteers to join our team. Through working together, we as a community will be able to take this project to the next level.

The dream is still very much alive. A community youth center is needed in Andover and we are not going to quit until it is built and proven successful. Forces are now rallying and in a more inclusive proposal we will focus on the numbers and other aspects that prove our understanding of all aspects of this project. We are firm believers that this is a sound investment in our town's youth and in our future. Our next step is to make sure that the whole town believes in this as much as we do.

Once again we deeply thank all of our supporters and we look forward to seeing you at the next vote. Remember, this is only the beginning.

Shocked that Finegold spoke vs. youth center

Editor, Townsmen:

I was shocked and dismayed to hear Selectman Finegold, at Monday's Town Meeting, speaking against the proposed youth center. A major plank in Mr. Finegold's platform in the recent elections was to support the youth of Andover in whatever capacity he could. That chance came at Town Meeting, but Mr. Finegold chose not to take it.

At Town Meeting, Selectman Finegold said that he considered himself part of Andover's youth. In my opinion, it is readily apparent that Mr. Finegold has no right to make this claim. Mr. Finegold has shamed himself by not only breaking a campaign promise, but by failing to support the very group of which he considers himself a part.

Don't pit playing fields against pine forests

Editor, Townsmen:

I would like to address two issues that were hotly debated at Town Meeting last Monday night. The first is the new soccer and softball fields proposed for the land behind South School. Although I voted in favor of the article, I think Mr. Silverman owes the entire town an apology for his intemperate remarks and would like to point out to him that soccer and softball fields are not morally superior to a pine forest. Nor, for that matter, are they morally inferior. Both forest and playing fields have merit and it is certainly within the rights of all individuals to prefer one over the other and to debate how to satisfy different constituencies without being rudely criticized.

The second issue is the teen center, which I voted against. I applaud Mr. Robb's remarks and agree that the voters didn't think the plan was developed enough to go forward with it. However, before the selectmen and School Committee do make another attempt at a new building, I would like them to consider an alternative.

There are many thousands of square feet of space in town that are nowhere fully utilized. Could we conduct a survey of all possibly available space that might be used for both teen-age and senior citizen activities? We have eight schools, each with gyms, cafeterias, libraries and playing fields. We also have a library with a number of meeting rooms of different sizes, school administration building, water treatment plant, the Town House, the town offices, more than a dozen churches and at least one fraternal organization.

Many of these are empty or under-used for significant parts of every day and especially on weekends. Could we not make good use of some of this space? (My siblings and I attended nursery school and kindergarten in a firehouse.) I should think the town itself could generate more user fees and the churches might welcome extra income as well.

Would this take more work than having a new building? Probably it would, but at substantial savings to the town. Perhaps more groups could be accommodated too. It's certainly worth a try. I for one don't want my tax dollars wasted on another white elephant like the Collins Center. Hey, it could be put to similar uses too.

Where to place the playing fields?

Editor, Townsmen:

The upshot of the amended Article 26, new playing fields, is that over the next 90 days, the Board of Selectmen and the School Committee will decide where to place several playing fields and a related parking lot. The debate over the article arose because of the currently proposed construction site: the forest behind South School. (Please note that this would be in addition to the current playing-field construction at the site, which has already resulted in the clear-cutting of a large tract of forest.)

The reason stated by the DCS for favoring the South School site versus its originally preferred Essex Gravel Pit site (both located in the Ballardvale section of town) is that the DCS was told recently that it would be more expensive to locate the fields at the gravel pit. I find it hard to understand why it would be less expensive to remove extremely large trees and level highly contoured land than it would be to build fields in a flat, open space, but I'm no construction specialist. I am a

Placing the playing fields

businessowner, however, and there's faulty reasoning behind the cost calculations. Even if the fields would indeed come in at the budgeted amount of $384,000, no one seems to have factored in the value of the mature forest that would be sacrificed were the fields to be built at South School.

There are lots of reasons - environmental, recreational, even historical - for opposing the South School site. As stated at Town Meeting, the forest is 100 years old and contains 70-foot tall trees many feet in girth. One speaker said that the forest is home to deer, wild turkeys, foxes, hawks and the protected wild orchid, Cypripedium acaule. In the forest and its environs, I've personally seen the last three. Also flying squirrels, a pileated woodpecker, an osprey and many other interesting birds and plants.

While the South School forest is not suitable for soccer or baseball, it is ideal for hiking, off-road biking, nature study and similar recreational activities. And it's actively used for these purposes. From the historical perspective, the land includes the old bed of the 1820 railroad that originally traversed Andover before the 1840 tracks were laid (ref. the memorial stone on Andover Street, across from the existing playing fields).

It can't take more than a year or so to build a playing field, but reflect for a moment on how long it takes to grow 70-foot trees of up to three feet in diameter. Surely such resources are irreplaceable - at least in my lifetime, and even in the lifetimes of the children that now play organized soccer and baseball. (One speaker at Town Meeting said that her son, an avid participant in organized soccer, cried when he heard that these woods would be cut down to make way for new fields.)

Please do not misunderstand. I don't oppose the appropriation of money to build playing fields (although I do wonder, along with many others, why the fields weren't incorporated into the recently approved $40.5 million school expansion plans). I simply oppose the unnecessary destruction of an irreplaceable Andover asset. Let's choose another site.

Who's littering?

Editor, Townsmen:

Here are some comments and philosophical musing as we near the fourth annual Andover litter cleanup and Earth Day Festival (April 23-30).

Last year Cub Scouts, de-littering a neighborhood, noticed that most of the litter was beer cans and cigarette packs. They concluded that surely people with "bad" habits litter more than other people.

Haverhill Street near the YMCA is especially trashed by people buying fast food on Route 114. A great suggestion was made that we have some signs along there that read "Please don't litter. We live here!"

A very large number of people in town have, for years, picked up litter routinely in certain areas of their neighborhoods. (It would be nice to make a list of all of them.)

If everybody else did that, we wouldn't need a special cleanup and the town would always be trash-free.

People usually in cars often don't notice litter. But once they walk or jog or bicycle, they do see it and frequently react by helping to clean up.

Every year more people participate in the town litter cleanup and more trash is carted away. Some areas where trash dumping was heavy are now less trashed. When an area looks like a dump, more people will use it as a dump. Cleaner areas stay cleaner.

Strangely, many beer and soda cans still contain some of their contents. Could it be the "in" thing to just take sip and toss the can?

Often, unopened six packs are found - thrown by someone heading home who doesn't want his or her family to know?

Sometimes trash has been carefully packed and tied and then thrown out along the roadside. On an area of Woburn Street each week small bags of trash appear - all neatly packaged and sealed. Many trashers of empty bottles screw on all the lids and arrange the bottles neatly in their box and then put it out alongside the road.

Do smokers who toss out cigarettes with filter tips know that they never disintegrate? Birds and small animals check them out and can choke on them.

Maybe with this sort of information, a detective or psychologist could profile the typical person who throws his trash along the roadside. I wonder what he or she would be like.

Litter picker-uppers are the good guys. Everybody, join in the big Andover trash cleanup.

My Stuff is from the award-winning "Positive Light" nationwide photography project for teen-agers with HIV and for their families, friends and caregivers.

Teen-agers with HIV shed 'Positive Light' on their lives through their photographs Positive Light is an award-winning, nationwide photography project for teen-agers with HIV and for their families, friends and caregivers.

The show is organized by Cathy Cornell, formerly a social worker at the Boston Hemophilia Center, and Barbara O'Brien, an arts administrator with an M.F.A. in photography. The exhibit is currently at the Steinbach Theatre Gallery, located in Phillips Academy's George Washington Hall, through Monday, April 24. The gallery is handicapped-accessible and open to the public weekdays from 8:30 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., and weekends from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

The project came about in response to the isolation of many HIV+ teen-agers and their families. Organizers hope the silence and isolation that often accompany AIDS in adolescence can be broken by putting the camera in the hands of the kids themselves.

Positive Light gives HIV+ teen-agers a way to express something about their experience living with HIV. HIV+ teens (ages 12-20) can receive a ready-to-use camera and take photographs that express something about their lives and living with HIV. They then choose which pictures to contribute to the exhibit and how they should be titled. Positive Light provides the cameras, film processing, enlarging and framing. Because most HIV+ teen-agers feel it is too risky to be open about their HIV diagnosis, the photographs are exhibited anonymously.

The images in the photographs express the medical, social, emotional and spiritual effects of HIV disease on adolescents. Viewers comment that the photographs make them think differently about HIV/AIDS and about adolescents. One photograph (shown above) is a still life of special personal possessions arranged on an American flag. There are Eagle Scout badges, Dungeons and Dragons, Garfield the cat, money, and many, many medications. It is titled simply My Stuff.

The ultimate aim of the project is to collect material for a book of photographs and writings documenting the effect of this epidemic on adolescents and families, friends and caregivers.

Contact Positive Light, 692A Washington St., Wellesley, Mass. 02181; or call (617) 239-3368.

The Lowell Daughters of Penelope are finalizing plans for a fashion show to be held next Sunday, April 30, at 1 p.m. at the Andover Marriott. Professional models will display fashions by Cache as guests enjoy a full-course luncheon. Door prizes and raffle gifts will be available. Show organizers in the photo above are (seated, from left): Mary A. Kalogianis, president, and Jo Ann Kalogianis Nikolopoulos, chairwoman, both from Andover. Members of the planning committee (standing, from left) are: Nikki Nikolopoulos, Daphne Dabekis, Florence Michaelides, Marianthe Dabekis and Dari Seakas. For more information about the show, call 475-0000.

SPORTS

AHS varsity tennis teams serve up six defeats

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys and girls tennis juggernauts hit the spring vacation week break at full gallop with identical 3-0 Merrimack Valley Conference records.

The boys, 3-1 overall with a non-league loss to St. John's Prep, followed their opening 5-0 victory over Wilmington with consecutive 5-0 sweeps of Haverhill and Methuen.

The Lady Warriors defeated Wilmington, 5-0, Haverhill, 4-1, and Methuen, 5-0.

Coach Mike Wartman's AHS boys improved to 158-9 in their last 167 league matches, and 184-21 in their last 205 overall.

The Andover girls have now won 68 straight MVC matches, are 141-1 in their last 142 league outings and 153-9 overall in their last 162.

The boys had another non-leaguer at Phillips Academy yesterday, and both teams return to the MVC wars next Monday afternoon against Tewksbury (girls at home, boys away).

Andover girls

Coach Tony Russo's squad dropped only one game in 10 sets against Wilmington.

Sophomore No. 1 singles Heather Young and senior Captain Jen Griffin at No. 3 singles rolled to 6-0, 6-0 victories, while freshman No. 2 Lauren Roda was a convincing 6-0, 6-1 victor in her varsity debut.

The veteran doubles tandem of senior Jackie LeMaitre and junior Andrea Marvin coasted 6-0, 6-0 at No. 1, while senior Captain Kelly Mitchell and junior Meghan Pauley were equally impressive in a 6-0, 6-0 romp at No. 2.

In the 4-1 triumph over Haverhill, the Lady Warriors once again swept doubles with LeMaitre-Marvin cruising 6-1, 6-0 and Mitchell-Pauley duplicating their opening 6-0, 6-0 blitz.

Young rolled over the Hillies' Anne-

Marie Driscoll 6-1, 6-0 at No. 1, and Griffin was a solid 6-3, 6-1 victor at third singles.

Roda's varsity record squared at 1-1 following a 4-6, 4-6 setback to Samantha Cerasuolo at second singles.

Methuen, in its season opener, gave Andover a solid test but still couldn't steal a point.

Jen Griffin had the toughest time, moving up to second singles and battling to a marathon, double tiebreaker 6-4, 6-7, 7-6 win over the Rangers' Lauren Valerio.

Heather Young continued to dominate at No. 1 with a 6-0, 6-3 romp, and Lauren Roda posted a 6-3, 6-2 triumph at third singles.

Marvin and Mitchell were paired at first doubles and they chalked up a steady 6-3, 6-3 win, while Pauley hooked up with junior Cindy Su for a 6-1, 6-2 triumph at No. 2 doubles.

Andover boys

Junior Captain Kurt Dahlstrand took his first turn at No. 1 singles and spanked Haverhill's Matt Anderson 6-2, 6-3 to start the Golden Warriors' on their way to another 5-0 shutout.

Sophomore Ross Fenton surrendered just one game in a 6-0, 6-1 romp at second singles, and junior Ravi Tharisiyi captured third singles by default.

The locals surrendered just three games in doubles, the No. 1 tandem of juniors Jay Levine and Mark Formichella rolling 6-0, 6-3 while the No. 2 duo of senior Scott Munroe and freshman Dave Gutstein clicked to perfection 6-0, 6-0.

Dahlstrand remained at No. 1 against Methuen and galloped to a 6-1, 6-1 victory.

Junior Andy Ravens took a turn at second singles and didn't disappoint with a 6-3, 6-1 sweep of John Minasian, while Ravi Tharisiyi dropped just one game in a 6-0, 6-1 cruise at third singles.

Levine and sophomore Dave Sullivan were symmetrical 6-3, 6-3 winners at first doubles, while the veteran-rookie team of Munroe and Gutstein remained in sync with a 6-0, 6-1 annihilation of their Ranger opponents.

Cullen, Munroe and Hesenius win hockey laurels

By Rick Harrison

Chris Cullen, Scott Munroe and Jeff Hesenius were named tri-Most Valuable Players of the 1994-'95 Andover High varsity ice hockey team.

The team held their awards banquet recently at the Ramada Rolling Green Motel.

Coach Bill Cullen's Golden Warriors highlighted a successful 13-7-0 campaign by winning the Haverhill Christmas Tournament Division II championship.

They shared the Merrimack Valley Conference Small School title with Tewksbury.

Senior goaltender Jason Veilleux and Brian Kwon were co-recipients of the Unsung Hero award.

Senior forward Dana DiFiore was presented with the Dedication Award.

Senior Mike Blanchette earned the Coaches Award.

Chris Cullen, who won the MVC Small School Division scoring championship and tied for second overall in the league point chase, and defensemen Hesenius and Kwon, who are juniors, will return to lead the team next year.

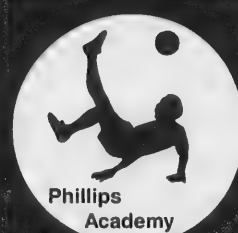

The team captains will be selected just prior to the start of next season.

JV awards

Junior varsity coach Ralph Quaglietta also distributed three major trophies.

Marc Roy was named Most Valuable Player.
Leonid Yakiravich earned the Most Improved Player award.

Ryan Lynch captured the Coach's Award.

AHS volleyball kills the competition with 4 victories

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys varsity volleyball team launched defense of its North Alliance title with four 2-0 victories over first-year team Westford Academy, Lowell, Chelmsford and Billerica High.

Those wins, coupled with a 2-1 season-opening non-league triumph over Newton South, lifted the Golden Warrior netmen to a quick 5-0 start including 4-0 in league play.

Andover has now won 14 straight North Alliance matches, the last loss 2-1 to Billerica on May 19, 1993, and is 19-1 in its last 20 league matches.

The AHS junior varsity also moved to 5-0 with sweeps of the same four league opponents after a 2-1 decision over Newton South.

Coach George Sullivan's crew is currently in the midst of an 11-day school vacation layoff, resuming practice yesterday after four days away.

Andover returns to the court next Tuesday, April 25 at Cambridge Rindge & Latin (3:30), and the next North Alliance match is Wednesday afternoon versus first-year team Dracut at the Dunn Gymnasium (3:30).

It appears the only opponent with a chance to challenge Andover for North Alliance supremacy is Methuen. The Rangers, currently 4-1, won't meet the Golden Warriors for the first time until Wednesday, May 3, at the Dunn Gymnasium.

Injury report

Senior outside hitter Aaryn Schmuhl has recovered from a leg injury, shedding his crutches and returning to the court last week against Billerica.

Meanwhile, junior setter Sean Rodriguez remains on the mend from a hip tendon injury that has kept him sidelined all season.

Andover 2

Lowell 0

The Golden Warriors swept the two games, 15-6 and 15-9.

Co-Captain Tim Foley finished the match 11-for-13 hitting, with nine kills, and he was a perfect 10-for-10 serving.

Co-Captain Sean Croteau was 9-for-11 hitting and 4-for-5 serving, while senior first-year player Matt Gibson continued to impress with a perfect 11-for-11 hitting, seven kills and five single blocks.

Junior middle hitter Joe Hogarty contributed a team-high eight blocks, three kills and was 4-for-4 on serve-receive.

Senior Abdul Ortiz finished the match 5-for-8 hitting, with two kills, and added four blocks and 8-for-9 serving.

Seniors Paul Krasnook and Greg Litchfield continued their outstanding back-row defensive play, while Krasnook was also 10-for-10 serving and Litchfield 7-for-9.

"We didn't have any service aces, but we served the ball hard and kept the pressure on Lowell," said coach Sullivan. "We made only four blocking errors in the two games, and only four passing errors on 30 chances."

Andover 2

Westford 0

The Grey Ghosts, a first-year team with mostly inexperienced underclassmen, were no match for Andover as the locals swept to a pair of 15-1 victories.

"Everyone played for us and the statistics were spread out," said coach Sullivan. "We didn't want to run it up. They're just starting out and it could take a couple years for the sport to get established at the school."

Co-Captains Tim Foley and Sean Croteau led the AHS offense with seven and five kills respectively.

Andover 2

Chelmsford 0

Coach Sullivan once again bested his former Merrimack College assistant Karen Robillard's Lions, winning the first game 15-7 and completing the sweep 15-10.

"We were very flat, off in Never-Never Land somewhere, for most of the afternoon," said Sullivan. "We'd make a good play and then stand around and watch on the next point. 'We were never in serious danger, leading all the way, but we lacked consistency and intensity."

"We're striving to take the next step, pick our game up another notch, and maybe the vacation week layoff will help."

Captain Tim Foley continued his impressive play with 11-for-11 serving, including eight aces, and seven kills.

Junior middle hitter Joe Hogarty contributed four kills, junior outside hitter Pat Hess was a defensive standout, and Captain Sean Croteau was the vocal on-court leader.

"We didn't block well until the second half of the final game," noted coach Sullivan.

Billerica 0

The final pre-vacation match attracted a big Good Friday crowd and produced a much better and more spirited performance than AHS had displayed against Chelmsford.

"We got into a good groove and stayed there," said coach Sullivan. "I hope we don't lose it over the vacation."

"There were a lot of strong volleys, and we continued to add variety and spice things up with some crosses, jump-serves and double hits."

Tim Foley led the way to the 15-5, 15-7 sweep with seven kills and five service aces, while Matt Gibson was authoritative at the net with eight kills.

Sean Croteau was all over the court, making things happen, while Abdul Ortiz was a hitting standout.

Aaryn Schmuhl made a triumphant return to the lineup with some excellent serving and back-row defense.

Andover JVs

The junior varsity cruised past Lowell, 15-7 and 15-4, as 6'3" sophomore Nick Wilson was 6-for-9 hitting with four kills, junior Zach Smith 8-for-8 serving with two aces, junior middle hitter Eric Bourassa 11-for-11 hitting with five kills, junior Pat Sharkey 15-for-16 serving, and sophomore Shawn Connors 7-for-7 hitting with two kills.

In the 15-12, 15-2 sweep of Westford Academy, junior Jeong An and sophomore David An were the top setters, Eric Bourassa the top hitter and Pat Sharkey played a strong match defensively.

In the season-opening come-from-behind 2-1 victory over Newton South, Andover dropped the first game 8-15 before rallying for 15-9 and 15-6 wins.

"After that opening game I thought we were in for a long season," said coach Sullivan. "But the kids bounced back nicely."

Wilson was 11-for-17 hitting, with five kills, and Bourassa 8-for-11 hitting with six kills.

Jeong and David An were strong setters, while Connors and Sharkey played solid defensive matches.

The 15-4, 15-2 sweep of Chelmsford came quickly behind the the strong play of junior Zach Smith (serving), junior Jon Adams (defense), Bourassa and Connors (all-around).

The 15-5, 15-2 romp over Billerica was highlighted by the play of Sharkey (defense), Smith (serving), Bourassa (four kills), Wilson (three kills) Connors (setting) and Jeong An (setting).

Andover High baseball sweeps East Boston clean, 16-0

By Rick Harrison

Senior righthander Tom Clarke pitched no-hit ball, and defending Merrimack Valley Conference batting champ Mike Maguire contributed a near-cycle single, double and triple, as the Andover High baseball team ripped East Boston 16-0 in a non-league game shortened to five innings by the 15-run slaughter rule.

Monday's impressive victory squared the Golden Warriors' record at 1-1, as they finally returned to action after a tough 3-2 season-opening loss to Phillips Academy nine days earlier.

Coach Ken Maglio's crew was scheduled to launch its MVC schedule yesterday against undefeated Haverhill (3-0).

Tomorrow AHS hosts Wilmington in the first home game of the season (2 p.m.).

Andover 16

East Boston 0

Lanky righthander Tom Clarke (1-1) struck out eight, walked only two, and was supported by a 12-hit attack as the locals scored in each of the five innings.

East Boston (2-3), which had played traditional Massachusetts state Division II power Stoneham tough in an earlier game, committed four of its nine errors in the first frame as AHS grabbed a 3-0 lead without benefit of a hit.

Sophomore Brian Tisbert walked and stole second. Team Captains Maguire and Tom Gardner reached on consecutive errors, allowing Tisbert to cross, and subsequent errors on balls hit by Dana McCann and freshman Jason Caverly brought the next two runs home.

out in the second stanza, Tisbert reached on an error, with Daniels taking third, but the AHS catcher was cut down at home as Tisbert took second on a delayed double steal.

Maguire followed with a ringing RBI triple, and then Gardner clouted a two-run homer to center field for a 6-0 lead.

Tom Tanin singled and stole second to open the Andover third.

Caverly rescued Tanin with a single, stole second, took third on a passed ball, and scored when senior DH Nate Roberts lofted a sac-fly.

The seven-run Golden Warriors fourth started with Tisbert reaching on an error, Maguire singling and Gardner walking to load the bases.

McCann belted a two-run double to left and Tanin hammered a two-run double to center.

Caverly spanked an RBI single, Roberts singled up the middle, Tisbert lashed a run-scoring single, and Maguire doubled for his second hit of the inning to cap the rally and make it 15-0.

Andover added a final tally in the fifth as sophomore Ryan Games singled, moved up on a passed ball, and scored when junior Mark Langone was safe on an error.

Maguire, Gardner and Tisbert scored three runs each.

East Boston had nothing even close to a base hit against the 6'7" Clarke.

Andover JVs

The Andover JVs also rolled to a 17-1 victory in their season opener played at the Logan Airport field against the aptly-nicknamed Jets.

Track teams sprint to easy victories in openers

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High boys and girls spring track and field teams had an easy time in season opening Merrimack Valley Conference dual meets against inter-division opponent Wilmington and Large School rival Methuen at the Lovely Field oval.

The boys rolled to a 112 1/2 to 32 1/2 victory over the Wildcats and a 98-47 triumph against Methuen.

The girls cruised to a 128-8 win versus Wilmington and a 77-59 decision over Methuen.

The Andover girls also settled for fourth place in a record field of 25 teams at the 15th annual Wilmington Invitational last weekend, with two-miler Susan Ashlock and the 4x110 yard sprint relay of Randi Spiegel, Amy Levesque, Laura Burkle and Barbara Contos earning the two AHS first places.

Next Wednesday Andover travels to Lowell for a meet at Cawley Stadium (3:30 p.m.). The AHS boys will compete in the annual Haverhill Invitational on Saturday at Haverhill Stadium (10 a.m.), and the following Saturday (April 29) Andover hosts the State Class B Relays at Lovely Field (10 a.m.).

Injury report

Two of the Warriors' most versatile athletes, seniors Jamie Barron and Mike Marcionis, were rested against Wilmington because of similar leg muscle strains.

Marcionis returned against Methuen but Barron remained sidelined through the opening two meets and the Wilmington Invitational.

Andover boys 112 1/2 Wilmington 32 1/2

The locals placed first in 13 of the 17 events and swept the top three places in the 110-meter high hurdles, discus, pole vault, long jump, high jump and triple jump.

Junior Eric DeMarco was the only double winner for Andover in the 110-meter hurdles (16.6) and 300-meter intermediate hurdles (44.8).

Also placing first in the running events were senior Jeff Arsenault in the 100-meter dash (11.6), junior Josh Hatch in the 200 meters (23.9), junior miler Charlie Russo (4:51.0) and sophomore two-miler Todd Collins (11:00.0).

In the field events the victors were sophomore Craig Hartwell in the discus (108'8"), senior Steve Muench in the shot put (42'8"), junior Dan Taylor who equaled his personal-best 11'6" in the pole vault, senior Captain Matt Ely in the high jump (5'10"), junior Adam Westaway in the long jump (20' 3/4") and senior Scott Savage in the triple jump (41'1 1/4").

Andover also won the 4x100 meter sprint relay as sophomore Tim Smith, Matt Aufiero, Arsenault and sophomore Tom Woods were clocked in 47.9.

Completing the sweeps were junior Mike Shaughnessy (17.0) and sophomore Peter Ellis (17.5) in the 110 hurdles, sophomore Matt Muench (106'9") and senior Mike Dalton (104'8") in the discus, Arsenault and Vin Dolan (both 9'0") in the pole vault, Smith (20' 1/2") and Savage (19'7 3/4") in the long jump, senior Captain Jon Hall (5'8") and junior Chris Richter (5'4") in the high jump, Westaway (41'0") and junior Chris Mann (35'7") in the triple jump.

Also contributing second places were Hatch (100 meters, 11.7), Hall (400 meters, 56.0), Ely (800 meters, 2:05.6), miler Matt Herling (5:09.0) and junior Rudy Morando (javelin, 153'1").

Completing the scorers in third place were Aufiero (200 meters, 25.2), Matt Caranci (400 meters, 57.6), senior Greg Foltz (800 meters, 2:12.2), sophomore two-miler Don Pattullo (11:28.0), Hartwell (javelin, 145'11") and shot putter Andy Lynch (38'9").

Andover girls 128 Wilmington 8

The Lady Warriors, defending MVC dual meet champions, swept every event except the javelin and won the 4x100 meter sprint relay.

Three girls won two events each.

The double winners were senior Kim Daher in the javelin (88'0") and shot put (33'11"), junior Missy Famiglietti in the long jump (16'8 3/4") and triple jump (35'8 1/2"), and senior Amanda Verreault in the high jump (4'8") and 400 meter dash (67.3).

Contributing one individual victory each were freshman Barbara Contos in the 100-meter high hurdles (18.4), senior Julie Rozopoulos in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles (53.3), junior Randi Spiegel (100 meters, 13.2), senior Captain Amy Levesque (200 meters, 27.4), junior Abby Clarke (800 meters, 2:43.9), junior miler Erin Collins (6:04.0), junior two-miler Susan Ashlock (12:04.0) and sophomore Sue Tully in the discus (88'7").

The victorious 4x100 relay quartet included Spiegel, Levesque, junior Laura Burke and freshman Beth Har (53.9).

Senior Captain Eveline Yang contributed a pair of second places in the long jump (15'1") and triple jump (35'0").

Freshman Courtney Barron had a second in the 100 hurdles (19.4) and third in the 300 hurdles (53.9), Burkle a second in the 200 meters (29.7) and third in the long jump (15'1"), and freshman Sarah Muller a second in the 300 hurdles (53.5) and third in the high jump (4'6").

Other runners-up were Har (100 meters, 13.9), Melissa Ying (400 meters, 69.0), freshman Viki Pierce (800 meters, 2:45.2), miler Megan Roth (6:06.0), two-miler Diana Liberty (14:07.0), senior Leah Mason (discus, 79'10"), Tully (shot put, 30'1 1/2") and sophomore high jumper Stephanie Brown (4'8").

Junior Kate Jurdi added a pair of third places in the discus (79'8") and javelin (78'6").

Also finishing third were Heather Rybicki (100 meters, 14.3), Jana Blanchette (200 meters, 31.7), Beth Murphy (400 meters, 70.0), sophomore Kolleen Cronin (800 meters, 2:45.5), freshman miler Catherine Blais (6:14.0), two-miler Ellen Buckley (14:18.0), senior shot putter Beth Cummins (24'10"), junior triple jumper Allyson Ahern (32'9") and Famiglietti in the 100 hurdles (19.9).

Softball opens with 2 losses

By Rick Harrison

The Andover High varsity softball team opened its Merrimack Valley Conference season with a pair of tough losses last week, dropping an 8-7 decision to two-time defending State Division II champion Wilmington and a 4-0 verdict to Lawrence.

The Lady Warriors had problems at the plate in both games, managing just five singles (two bunts) against Wilmington and two singles versus Lawrence.

The double dip left AHS at 1-2 overall entering this week's action.

Coach Ken Pellerin's club was scheduled to face Large School Division pre-season co-favorite Haverhill on Tuesday, and came back this afternoon with a game at Methuen (2 p.m.). Andover has three games next week against Tewksbury (Monday at home, 3:30 p.m.), at Billerica (Wednesday) and at Lawrence (Friday).

Wilmington 8 Andover 7

The Lady Warriors gave Wilmington all it could handle at the Wildcats' April Field, tying the game 7-7 with a four-run seventh-inning rally before the host team pushed across the winning run in the bottom of that stanza. Junior Vanessa Blank went the route on the mound, yielding 10 hits while walking two and striking out one.

Andover was held to five singles by starter Lindsay Currier and last-inning reliever Kelly Landers, but Currier also issued eight walks and the winners committed an Un-Wilmington-like seven errors.

Andover, which trailed the entire game, scored once in the third to make it 3-1, twice in the fifth to close to 5-3, and rallied to score four runs in the top of the seventh for a 7-7 tie.

Vanessa Blank and Noelle Blank drew walks in the seventh, senior Captain Eileen Sweeney contributed an RBI single, freshman Kristi Keller beat out a bunt, and Wilmington helped the cause with three errors.

In the home half of the stanza, however, Jacqueline Holloway beat out an infield hit, pinch-runner Julie Gillis was sacrificed to second, and Nicole Dussault ended the game with a one-out RBI single to right field.

Sweeney finished the game 2-for-4, Keller beat out two bunts for basehits, and Nicole Blank contributed an RBI single. Erin Falzone paced Wilmington with 3-for-3, a triple and two doubles, and she also scored three runs and collected one RBI. Leanne Harris added an RBI triple, Jacqui Hayden an RBI double, and Nancy Pote an RBI single.

Lawrence 4 Andover 0

Lawrence took advantage, scoring three runs in the first and one more in the fourth before Vanessa Blank shut the door over the final five shutout frames. Lancers' pitcher Leanne Bradish, in her varsity mound debut, tossed a two-hit shutout with four whiffs and only one walk. Blank scattered seven hits over seven innings, striking out two and walking none.

The locals' three baserunners were sophomore Jen Murnane with a fifth-inning single, Kristi Keller with a seventh-inning single, and Vanessa Blank on a walk.

Defensive standouts were freshman first baseman Julie Litzenberger (11 putouts) and senior Captain Aprille Canniff at catcher.

Diana Madruga sparked Lawrence with two hits and two runs scored.

Apologies to teens

they will conclude that there is no point in trying to effect change. But there is another, and better, lesson that our teen-agers can learn from their frustrating encounter with Town Meeting, and that is that change is a matter of process and organization. With enough organizing this vote can be turned around at the next Town Meeting.

For all of us who believe in your ability to lead and make decisions and choose wisely, please don't give up. We need your vision. Even more so because our present leadership lacks it.

We need men in the elementary schools

Editor, Townsmen:

As a parent of two children at the South School here in Andover, I have had the chance to be able to participate in my kids' education by volunteering in the classroom. Spending time in the schools has made me aware of something a little disturbing. There aren't many men around in the elementary schools.

As you go up the ladder into middle school, high school and administration, there are more men involved. But in the early parts of a child's education, there isn't much involvement by men. This isn't something particular to Andover, it is this way in most of the country. Child care (day care and education), from birth through the elementary school years, is almost exclusively the domain of women.

If you believe that balance, that is a varied mixture of what life has to offer, is important to a healthy life, then it is possible we are missing something in our children's lives. Healthy men and women, mothers and fathers, are complements to each other. That is why some experts believe, and research shows that the healthiest child development takes place in a home where there is both a mother and a father. But in the early education and care of children, when their most important development takes place, many children do not get this balance. For these reasons I would urge fathers to become more involved.

Today there are many fathers taking a more active role in their children's lives. They can be seen at the supermarkets, at the park and wherever else the daily business of life is carried out. There are also many reasons why fathers can't be as involved as they might like to be. Life doesn't seem to be getting any easier for mothers or fathers. Parents must do their best to utilize the decreasing amount of time they have with their families. For a father, a classroom volunteer opportunity might make a lasting impression in exchange for a minimum of time.

Research shows that the most successful students have parents who are involved in their child's education. In Andover there are many dedicated volunteers working in the schools. Mothers are not just the backbone of parent support in schools, they represent all the parent support. Fathers, for the most part, are not as involved. They should be, and many probably would like to, but how? They, along with many mothers, are working when their children are in school. There is no time. There is some hope though.

Most of the teachers I have known love to see a father volunteer in their classroom. After talking to your child's teacher, you will be welcomed. So take a day (or a half a day, or a couple of hours) off at least once a year and commit to visiting your child's class if you haven't already.

Help with a project, teach something simple, chaperone a field trip, read a book or just watch. Being there is more important than what you do. A father's visit is so rare your child will never forget it. It is a decision that will benefit you, your child and his or her classmates.

[Editor's note: Thomas Burns, in addition to being a father, is a graduate student in early childhood education at Wheelock College in Boston.]

Dick Neal's the man for the job

Editor, Townsmen:

Enclosed is an open letter to the members of the School Committee supporting the candidacy of Richard Neal for superintendent of the Andover School System. In my opinion, several recent articles have portrayed Mr. Neal in a negative light, thus prompting this response. Most appalling were Don Staruk's highlighted comments on page 21 of last week's Townsmen.

Anyone who knows Mr. Neal, knows his integrity and morality are above reproach. To suggest that his vote on Sue Dalton's warrant article was political, is ludicrous. Furthermore, I didn't realize it was the function of Townsmen reporters to monitor the votes of private citizens, and then report them in the paper.

Andover has the opportunity to place a highly respected and highly qualified resident in an extremely important position. I would hope we all could be supportive of this candidate.

Dear School Committee member:

At this point I'm sure you've heard a thousand opinions regarding the selection of the new superintendent. As a resident with about 40 years invested in this town, let me add my two cents.

Andover is struggling with some weighty educational issues. It's unfortunate that we must divert our focus in mid-stride to finding someone who can continue to lead the mission. The good news is the diversion can be minimal. You already have the right person in place - Dick Neal.

He knows the system, the players, the personalities, the problems, the obstacles, and the opportunities. There is no down-time, no learning-curve, and no adjustment period. Most important, in my opinion, he has the ability to bring all the concerns into focus so the best decisions can be made.

There are probably many people who feel that new blood is beneficial to the system, and that can be a valid argument for looking at a wide range of candidates. However, someone who already has an investment in the system can be much more valuable in the long run. Dick Neal has made a large investment in terms of time, commitment, effort, and concern for the quality of our education program. The town of Andover should provide him with a "return" on his investment by making him the next superintendent of the Andover School System.

More about two lanes at Phillips Academy

Editor, Townsmen:

In "Two lanes at PA will be expensive" in the April 6 Townsmen, Donald Gardiner suggests enticing economical solutions to increase safety and reduce the number of lanes from four to two in front of Phillips Academy. If the parking slots he envisions are parallel parking along both sides of that stretch of Main Street, the parked cars could further reduce visibility of pedestrians.

Two lanes, currently uni-directional, should become the northbound and southbound lanes. The other two lanes, already separated from the travel lanes by a media, could become a small angled parking area - the far lane for angle parking and the near for backing out and traveling through the lot.

Mr. Gardiner is correct. Leave the flashing school lights on 24 hours a day, print 25 mph right on the roadway and save half a million dollars by using currently paved areas to create inviting parking right near Phillips' beautiful green. Community members would no longer speed by, they'd be tempted to stop and park to take a walk, fly a kite or frequent the museums.

Why have my taxes gone up more than 2½%?

Editor, Townsmen:

Some years ago, an initiative called Proposition 2½ was enacted in Massachusetts. It was my understanding that this limited annual real estate tax increases to 2.5 percent throughout the Commonwealth, excepting for specific current-year overrides by township voters.

Last week I received my 1995 tax bill, and for the eighth consecutive year it was an increase of more than the 2½ percent figure. In 1988, for example, the increase was 19.9 percent, followed by annual increases of 9.1 percent, 4.2 percent, 9.1 percent, 6.5 percent, 6.3 percent, 16 percent ... and this year's 7.4 percent.

Neither the boundaries of my property, nor the improvements on it have changed in any way over these years. Does anyone else notice these increases? Am I the only retiree about to be taxed out of town? It would be a real public service if someone in the town government (or at the Townsmen) could offer me and others in my situation a simple explanation of the true intent of Proposition 2½, and how it relates Andover property taxes.

John O. Yaeger
43 Summer St.

[Editor's note: "Proposition 2½ really only addresses the total amount of money that a community raises in an individual year," according to Andover's assessor, William Krajewski.

The town's tax levy, the total amount raised in taxes, can only increase 2½ percent plus the amount available from new growth, which includes properties added to the tax base for the first time in a given year. That formula has recently resulted in annual levy increases of roughly 4.2 percent.

Value and the tax classification rate set by selectmen are the other two factors that can change an individual's tax bill. Property values shift depending on the real estate market, and so does the tax burden. Mr. Krajewski is available to answer calls from anyone who wants a more thorough explanation.]

Recycle more, please

Editor, Townsmen:

We are students of Andover High School. We have a project to be done for our chemistry class. Our assignment is to pick a topic that will somehow improve the community and society and do a report on it. We chose the topic of recycling. Our goal is to write to people whom we think could make a difference with this problem.

As students of AHS, we are concerned with the recycling problem here in Andover. Every day we see countless students discard their paper trash in the trash can instead of in the recycling bins or bags located next to or near the trash cans.

We see this as a big problem which would not take that much energy to improve. If people in our community were more motivated or more aware of the amount of waste filling landfills, it would be much less. Therefore, we propose that we consider following in the footsteps of a town in Illinois. In Rockford, Ill., residents can win more than $1,000 simply for recycling. The city asks that households separate the recyclable materials from their garbage. In return, the town pays them from the savings on landfills. We feel that, if some innovative program like this one were out into Andover, we could greatly improve our present situation. The blue barrels and recycling machines at stores are a step in the right direction, but we need to go further.

Owner Tom Manzi with the new Dodge Stratus

Tom Manzi Dodge, Inc.

The new Dodge Stratus is the final result of countless hours of surveying drivers to determine how to best meet their needs. It has all the comfort and safety of the Intrepid, winner of the Consumers' Digest Best Value Award. The most sophisticated safety technology is integrated with the Stratus' very structure. The cab-forward design is enhanced by the double-wishbone suspension, usually found in much more expensive autos.

An impressive list of standard features includes dual air bags, air conditioning, power brakes, rear window defroster, AM/FM stereo cassette, cruise control, tilt steering wheel, power steering, fold down rear seat to accommodate longer items and side impact protection. The instrumentation of the new Stratus cockpit wraps switches and controls around the driver for near-effortless driving. Some of the other options available are 100 watt compact disc player with eight speakers, power windows and locks, integrated child safety seat and personal security package. The Stratus offers three different highly advanced multi-valve engines and either a smooth-shifting electronically controlled four-speed overdrive automatic transaxle or a five-speed manual.

Tom Manzi Dodge, Inc. has served the Merrimack Valley since 1956. Their success is measured by their many satisfied, loyal customers. They are also known for their commitment to the community. Both Tom and Suzanne are actively involved in the Lawrence Boys and Girls Club. Suzanne is Third Vice President and Chairman of the Girls Club Committee and Tom is Director of the Boys and Girls Club. Tom has been re-elected to the Advisory Board for Chrysler and named top dealer for service in the Merrimack Valley.

Tom Manzi Dodge, Inc. is located at the intersection of Merrimack Street and So. Broadway in Lawrence. Sales hours are seven days a week. Service hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Thursday 7:30 a.m. to 8 p.m. and Saturday 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Andover Livery Cab

This full service cab company offers both local and airport service to Andover and North Andover residents 24 hours a day and seven days a week. They have added a world-wide toll free phone number which may be used for arrangements for return trips or if there is a change in schedule.

Andover Livery Cab continues to live up to its reputation of having the newest and cleanest cabs on the street. The latest addition to the fleet is a white limousine which may be requested by customers when it is not already in use.

Drivers at Andover Livery Cab are conscientious, service and safety oriented.

Concern for customer safety and satisfaction are evident in the service provided. All cars are equipped with children's car seats. Their safe driving record is impressive.

They offer service from Andover to Logan Airport for $35 per couple. The service is direct with no other stops along the way. Return pick-ups from the airport are easily arranged. They also provide package delivery service throughout all of New England 24 hours a day.

Andover Livery Cab is a favorite with local students, ferrying them to movies and the malls, as well as to and from the airport. Service is provided between the commuter train depot and home. A cab is usually waiting at the depot for arriving passengers. An Executive Coach Service is chiefly used to transport clients between home and their corporate offices, as well as the airport and Boston proper.

Owner Mike Bellmore is committed to delivering the most efficient and courteous cab service possible.

Andover Livery Cab's telephone is answered 24 hours a day, seven days a week: (508)474-4244, (508) 475-2888 or their new world-wide toll free number 1-800-592-4244.

Steve and George Lambrou

Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. Fine Pre-Owned Vehicles

Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. is a family business owned by brothers George and Steven Lambrou. Before moving to their new location almost two years ago on Route 125, they were located in Haverhill as Winter Street Auto Sales. They are known for the comfortable atmosphere of their business, their honesty and the respectful way they treat their customers. Referrals from their many satisfied customers bring in clients from as far as Boston.

Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. sells one owner, late model ('88 and newer) used cars and trucks that they purchase from the seller.

There is no high pressure as the buyer chooses from a large selection of family sedans, trucks, convertibles, sports utility cars, vans, luxury cars and classic models. If they do not have the model you are looking for, they will make every effort to get it. The extended warranty is almost as good as a new car warranty. Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. can do all the paperwork, including bank financing. They can help arrange financing through Shawmut Bank and First Essex Savings Bank. They will spare you all the running around by having a one-stop operation. You are welcome to bring the car to your own mechanic to have it checked.

Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. has a service department and body shop with state of the art spray booth and top of the line equipment. Rates are very reasonable.

Customers are welcome to stop and browse. The Lambrou brothers will be happy to answer any questions. There are no gimmicks or high pressure at Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. As a courtesy to their customers, the first oil change after purchase is free.

Haverhill Motorcars, Inc. is located at 815 South Main Street (Route 125), across from Cedarvale Athletic Club, Haverhill. Hours are Monday through Friday 9 a.m. to 7 p.m., Saturday 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday by appointment. Telephones: (508) 521-7000 and (508) 521-0578.

Pictured above is Dick Rammacher with a portion of a radon remediation system in operation. The manometer, which is a simple effective "system-on-indicator" shows that the system is operating properly. Dick Rammacher is both an EPA approved radon tester and mitigation contractor, permitting him to design and install cost-effective radon remediation systems that permanently reduce radon concentrations to safe levels.

Radon is a cancer-causing radioactive gas produced in the soil. It is of growing concern to area residents as it is responsible for thousands of lung cancer deaths per year, second only to smoking. One in three homes have levels that exceed EPA's recommended maximum exposure. Elevated levels of radon gas should prompt widespread testing and remediation of high radon homes.

High radon concentrations in any home can be permanently reduced to safe levels. This requires a competent and experienced mitigation contractor who can repair homes with guaranteed results. Dick Rammacher has successfully remediated nearly 400 homes with radon levels in the area, more than half of those in the Andovers. Average radon reductions are greater than 90 percent. Most radon systems are inconspicuous, taking up minimal space, out of sight and requiring little power.

The radon issue arises most commonly in real estate transactions. Many health conscious people, who are aware of the dangers, call in remediation on their own if, after testing, remediation is indicated.

Dick Rammacher is available to answer any questions concerning radon, its detection and reduction, at no charge or obligation. For a free consultation, please call Dick Rammacher at Radon Diagnostic Services.

5 big taxpayers file for abatements

stages of deciding a strategy for how to handle these abatement requests, and that no hearings have yet been held on any of them.

The deadline for filing for abatements was Jan. 30.

Should the town choose to settle any or all of the requests, there is $400,000 in an overlay account that can be used for that purpose, he said. Taking each of these large companies all the way through the abatement process in court could also be very costly, he said.

"Each one of these is going to cost us, at a minimum, $50,000," (if the abatement process went all the way to court), Mr. Krajewski said Wednesday. "We have some hard decisions to make."

Buzz Stapczynski, town manager, said he and selectmen are not getting involved in the abatement reviews.

"We can't. It's the Board of Assessors' job to review all abatement requests," Mr. Stapczynski said. "The ball is now in the court of the Board of Assessors."

No specific dollars

Mr. Krajewski said the requests, including Raytheon's, do not specify any amounts being sought.

"All it states is that they feel the property is overvalued," Mr. Krajewski said.

He and the Board of Assessors are reviewing the requests and the files on each company's property valuation and trying to determine relationships to see if there is any common factor in them.

The value of Commercial and Industrial property is attained by reviewing recent sales of similar properties as well as lease rates and occupancy records. The assessors will have to go back and review all the factors that went into determining the values to see if there is any basis for a significant difference in the interpretation of the information.

Mr. Krajewski said a small variation in the per-square-foot lease or sale value can make a big difference in total value when you are dealing with properties that are up to 1 million square feet.

Genetics Institute has nearly 500,000 square feet of buildings; Gillette has 500,000 to 600,000; DEC's two properties total about three-quarters of a million; Hewlett-Packard has three-quarters of a million; and Raytheon has 1.4 million square feet.

And the type of space varies. Genetics is high-tech laboratory space, while Gillette is primarily a warehouse and manufacturing facility, and all the others fall in between, Mr. Krajewski said.

"So we'll take another look at all of our numbers and I'm in the process of doing that at the moment," Mr. Krajewski said.

Raytheon

Raytheon, with two facilities located on Lowell Street in West Andover, is the town's largest taxpayer. Its property here is valued at $68.8 million this year. The company's property-tax bill for FY 1995, which ends June 30, 1995, is

'Here they're coming in and they're getting very aggressive about their local tax bill - and they never have in the past.'

$1.66 million.

Values and tax bills for the other four are: Hewlett-Packard - $41,465,500, tax bill $1,000,860; DEC - $35,226,145, tax bill $852,120; Gillette - $25,971,600, tax bill $628,253; and Genetics - $21,171,400, tax bill $512,136.

Raytheon's tax bill during the past 10 years has ranged from $1.35 million to $1.67 million.

"Their bill has actually been very stable since the mid-'80s," Mr. Krajewski said.

The abatement request seems to indicate a change in the company's position toward the municipalities in which its facilities are located, the assessor said.

"Here they're coming in and they're getting very aggressive about their local tax bill - and they never have in the past," Mr. Krajewski said.

Raytheon officials no longer reveal the number of employees at individual locations, but according to previous figures released and changes that have taken place at the company, it has between 4,650 and 5,500 employees at its two Andover facilities.

FLOWER POWER

Town Clerk Randall Hanson took the flowers from the stage after the third night of Town Meeting last Wednesday, April 12. She said she wanted to give the flowers to the oldest person at Town Meeting. Unfortunately, most residents had left the Collins Center at Andover High School by the time the flowers were removed.

Spring Car Care

April 20, 1995

Tips to keep your vehicle 'In tune with the environment'

To help you observe Earth Day every day, the experts at the nonprofit National Institute for Automotive Service Excellence have prepared the following car care tips:

- Don't put off routine care maintenance. Compared to a neglected vehicle, one that's properly maintained and operated runs more efficiently, is safer, lasts longer and commands a higher resale value. And you'll be helping the environment.

- Keep the engine running at its peak. A misfiring spark plug can reduce fuel efficiency as much as 30 percent. Replace filters and fluids as recommended by the owner's manual. A well-tuned vehicle pollutes less.

- Underinflated or poorly aligned tires force the engine to work harder, which wastes fuel. Properly maintained tires last longer, saving you money and lessening the burden at landfills.

- Dispose of used motor oil, anti-freeze/coolant and old batteries properly. Many repair facilities accept these items; otherwise, call your local government for recycling sites.

- If you're not a do-it-yourselfer, find a good technician. Ask friends and associates for recommendations. Check the reputation of the repair shop with your local consumer group. Check out the technician's credentials. ASE-certified auto technicians have passed one or more national competency exams in specialties such as engine performance and air conditioning. Repair facilities with ASE technicians usually display the ASE blue and white sign, while the technicians wear shoulder insignias and carry personalized credentials listing their exact area(s) of certification.

- Keep your air conditioner in top condition and have it serviced only by a technician certified to handle/recycle refrigerants. The air conditioners in older vehicles contain ozone-depleting chemicals. Improper service can leak some of these chemicals into the atmosphere.

- Change your driving habits. Speeding and sudden accelerations waste fuel. Use cruise-control on highways to maintain a steady pace. When waiting for friends or family, shut off the engine. Consolidate your daily errands to eliminate unnecessary driving.

- Remove excess items from the vehicle. Less weight means better mileage. Store luggage/cargo in the trunk rather than on the roof to reduce air drag.

Good driving habits and periodic vehicle maintenance will help you, your car and the environment.

Commonwealth Motors strives to satisfy their customers both before and after the sale 1994 was a record breaking year for Charles Daher's Commonwealth Motors and 1995 is even better. Business is fantastic and there has never been a better selection of new and used cars available.

Chevrolet for 1995 is offering many new products including the exciting and completely redesigned Chevrolet Blazer, the brand new Cavalier, along with the very exciting Chevrolet Lumina and the resurgence of the famous Monte Carlo.

Commonwealth Motors has pulled out all the stops to make sure that they satisfy all their many customers as best they can. At Commonwealth Motors they strive to make sure all their customers are satisfied before and after the sale.

The service department is open six days a week, Monday through Saturday, along with the body shop. The sales department is open seven days a week for customer convenience. The staff at Commonwealth Motors looks forward to seeing all their customers and friends, and promise to give them the absolute best value possible along with world class service.

Commonwealth Motors is conveniently located off route 495 at exit 45 in Lawrence. The telephone number is (508) 687-3000.

Intelligent vehicle-highway society is a 'smart' idea for today's traveler

Advanced technologies helped U.S. troops to identify friendly vehicles in Operation Desert Storm, help air traffic controllers to keep airplanes safe in crowded skies and allow automated bank teller machines to honor requests for quick cash. These same advanced technologies are now being harnessed to make everyday travel safer, faster and cleaner for Americans.

States and localities across the country are developing and implementing intelligent vehicle-highway systems—"ivhs" for short.

The Intelligent Vehicle-Highway Society of America (ivhs america) says, "We can't build our way out of modern traffic congestion. Local governments don't have the money. The environment can't stand the stress. We can no longer tolerate 40,000 traffic deaths a year."

Some people recognize ivhs "smart cars and smart highways," but ivhs america says ivhs goes farther than that. The Society says, "We need smart cars, smart highways, smart public transit, and better-informed travelers. We need a total smart surface transportation system."

- Los Angeles is linking traffic signals at several thousand intersections to a central computer. Roadbed sensors and monitors feed data on traffic flow to the computer. Traffic lights adjust continuously to avoid "wasted green time." The system already is reducing traffic light stops by millions a year, cutting tens of thousands of hours off commuting times, and lowering exhaust emissions by 26 percent. New York City is installing an even larger system.

- Chicago is outfitting 4,000 automobiles with smart in-vehicle navigation systems. Enter your destination and the best route pops up on a TV-like screen on the dashboard. A simulated voice adds specific audible directions.

- Toll facilities in New Jersey, Texas, Oklahoma, and elsewhere use smart systems that identify the vehicles of participating drivers as they roll by at highway speeds. Tolls are deducted automatically from prepaid accounts. On the East and West Coasts, interstate consortiums are installing related technologies that identify and weigh trucks in motion, and record tax and safety information automatically, to reduce stops and improve efficiency for big rigs.

- San Francisco is beginning a market study of variable tolls on the crowded Bay Bridge to find out if drivers will respond to a program of incentives by avoiding trips across the bridge at the most congested times. Rewards would include lower tolls at off-peak times and better public transit during rush hours. A computerized smart system would track and automatically collect the correct tolls.

Ivhs america is a scientific and educational society dedicated to keeping America moving through advanced surface transportation technologies.

American automobile owners love the latest comfort accessories

As North American car, truck and van sales continue their upswing, owners are predictably acting out their love affair with accessories — those fun items that make vehicles stand out from the average model. In some cases, this equipment has a practical side as well.

Remote keyless entry is one example of an automotive "toy" that is an important part of a top-of-the-line security system.

"Today, with a touch of a button, you can open a car door, turn on interior lights and even start the engine," explains Tom Walker, product manager for Ziebart TidyCar. "Not only is this a convenience for the driver, it can help deter would-be thieves from touching a car or truck."

For years, California has been setting trends for the rest of the country, as "hot" accessories are seen there first before making their way east. Some more decorative options that began there include graphics, truck visors and bedrails.

The world's largest installer of sunroofs is finding their popularity continuing on all types of vehicles. Options include manual pop-up versions, to tilt and slide models, with manual crank or electric controls.

"Pickup trucks have become the custom cars of the 1990s," Walker declares, as aero-styled running boards and cab spoilers complete the desired sporty look. With literally scores of accessories — from window tint to spray-on-liner to tonneau covers — it's possible to make a relatively mundane light truck come alive.

Remote keyless entry is one example of an automotive "toy" that is an important part of a top-of-the-line security system.

Motorcycle accidents and fatalities declining

A recently released report from the Motorcycle Safety Foundation shows that in the last decade, motorcycle accidents and fatalities in the United States have decreased dramatically. According to the national organization, motorcycle accidents in 1992 (the most recent year for which statistics are available) declined by 13.2 percent from 1991, while motorcycle-related fatalities declined by 14.1 percent.

The decrease in accidents is good news for the nearly 20 million American motorcycle enthusiasts, who, through basic precautions, can help provide for their own safety while still enjoying the fun and freedom of the open road.

Because three-fourths of all motorcycle accidents involve collisions with other vehicles, national champion motorcycle racer Britt Turkington offers the following safety tips for motorcyclists, and a few suggestions for car drivers as well.

Safety tips for motorcyclists:

- NEVER operate a motorcycle (or any other vehicle) while under the influence of alcohol or drugs.

- Always wear a helmet that meets with Department of Transportation standards. Many riders prefer full-face helmets.

- Wear brightly colored protective apparel: Gloves, jacket, pants and boots. At night, use light-reflecting attire.

- Look as far down the road as possible. Watch for changing traffic patterns, accidents or obstructions that may require evasive maneuvers.

- Be cautious of drivers turning left across traffic lanes. This is a major cause of car/motorcycle collisions.

- Do not expect motorists to see you or to yield the right of way.

- Take a course to learn more about motorcycle safety.

For a motor-

- Always use turn signals to alert motorcyclists where you are going.

- Share the road with motorcyclists. They have the same right of way as car drivers.

- Use caution when crossing intersections or when turning left in front of oncoming traffic. The number one cause of car/motorcycle collisions is cars turning left in front of oncoming motorcycles.

According to Turk-cycle rider course near you, call 800/447-4700.

Safety tips for car drivers:

ington, "Some of these tips may seem obvious, but as a professional racer, I know that safety must be a top priority."

Share the road with motorcycles

Learning to share the road with motorcycles can help put automobile drivers on the road to safety. Here are some tips from the Motorcycle Safety Foundation that can help drivers prevent accidents:

- Keep a conscious eye out for motorcycles in traffic, especially when you are crossing an intersection. It's easy to think a motorcycle is farther away than it is.

- Give the motorcyclist the whole lane even though the motorcycle only takes up a portion of a lane. Motorcyclists may ride in the left, center or right portion of the lane to avoid oil or potholes, or to be seen.

- Don't assume that a motorcyclist is going to turn just because the signal is on. The turn signals on most motorcycles don't cancel automatically.

It's important to remember that motorcyclists have the same rights on the highway as other vehicle operators. Please drive safely.

Saturn of Haverhill approaches customers with courtesy and outstanding service

The sales staff at Saturn of Haverhill invites you to come see their fine 1995 automobiles. From the left side of the Saturn car front to back are Dave Dillon, Beth Gagnon, Frank Masi and Gene Northam. Lining the right side of the car from front to back are Jason Kramatsos, Rick Snowden, Alan Craft and Jennifer Hartwell.

Five years ago a foremost auto maker reinvented the automobile and took the best ideas of the last 100 years and fused them together under one roof. Thus, the first Saturn automobile emerged from the assembly line in Spring Hill, Tenn., and was hailed as an exceptional new car value.

But Saturn also made buying a high-quality car easier with the idea that people just don't buy a car but buy into a way of doing business. There is no high pressure sales nor outrageous sticker mark-ups. Customers drive away from a Saturn showroom feeling good about their cars and the people from whom they bought them.

Sales manager Frank Masi asks, "How can we make you happy?" while other dealers say "What do we have to do to sell you this car today?" Saturn's approach with outstanding customer service is what sells cars. As Masi said, "We promise you will truly experience a respectful approach to car buying or leasing."

Customers are encouraged to share comments and suggestions. An open-door policy helps the dealer devise new way to keep customers enthusiastic and satisfied throughout their ownership experience.

People looking to see what the 1995 line-up has to offer new buyers or owners whose cars need servicing are encouraged to come in. "Our people won't overwhelm you - rather, they'll let the cars and great service do all the talking," said Masi.

The Saturn of Haverhill dealership, located at Exit 48 off Route 495, offers new cars, pre-owned cars and utility vehicles. It says it has a "different" atmosphere that is bright and clean and the buyer is courteously greeted and made to feel welcome.

"A sales consultant will assist you with any questions. We even have a friendly video system to give you information about Saturn," said Masi.

Saturn of Haverhill's approach to customers needs is to find out what is important to the customer and "invest time in our relationship" with them. Call for an appointment at (508) 373-6700 or visit the dealership. Our showrooms hours are: Monday - Thursday, 8:30 a.m. to 8:30 p.m.; Friday, 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m.; Saturday, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sunday, noon to 4 p.m.

"Our people won't overwhelm you - rather, they'll let the cars and great service do all the talking."

Frank Masi

Most meaningful relationships wind up costing a lot more than this.

The Saturn SL1

To add to your first thought of "wow, that's a pretty inexpensive car" we have some more good news. According to The Complete Car Cost Guide by IntelliChoice®, Inc., the Saturn SL1 has one of the best cost-of-ownership ratings in its class. Which means you can save your money for the things you really need to do, like taking your significant other out to dinner.

Manufacturer's Suggested Retail Price of the 1995 Saturn SL1 is $11,355, including retailer preparation and transportation. Tax, license, and options additional. Each retail facility is responsible for setting its own selling price, which may differ from the price suggested above. ©1995 Saturn Corporation.

A DIFFERENT KIND OF COMPANY. A DIFFERENT KIND OF CAR.

Mercedes on the move for '95

New pricing, new models, new future

New market-driven pricing, greater fuel efficiency, a highly-acclaimed model range and strong sales gains are all clear signals that Mercedes-Benz is gaining momentum in 1995. Add to this the announcement of new products on the horizon such as the sporty SLK roadsters, the U.S.-produced all-activity vehicle, and an innovative A-Class compact sedan, and the signal only grows stronger. The company that invented the automobile continues to re-invent itself.

"We are determined to set the value standard in each and every segment in which we compete, delivering what our customers want and never compromising on the safety, quality, durability and performance expected in a Mercedes," said Michael Bassermann, Mercedes-Benz of North America president and CEO.

For 1995, Mercedes-Benz continues to market four vehicle ranges, or classes. First, the top-of-the-line family of S-Class sedans and coupes — already acclaimed as the world's best luxury cars — features improved fuel efficiency, additional standard equipment and, in the case of the sedans, freshened styling.

The exterior changes on the '95 S-Class sedans provide a softer, lower look. A modified grill, redesigned lights, restyled bumpers and revised lower body panels all contribute to its new look. At the rear, the '95 S-Class sedans incorporate a trunk lid that's more rounded at the back (similar to the coupes), plus a redesigned reflective strip and taillights.

In addition, all the '95 S-Class cars come with several new convenience features specifically designed for the U.S. market: two cupholders in both the front and rear center armrests, a remote trunk release switch, and a parking brake warning buzzer.

Mercedes-Benz — credited with the development of electronic traction control — has now made such traction systems standard on every S-Class car for '95. Electronic traction control is either standard or optional on all other Mercedes models.

The Mercedes S-Class sedan line includes the standard-wheelbase S350 Turbodiesel (not available in California or New York) and the new long-wheelbase models: the six-cylinder S320, the V8-powered S420 and S500 and the limited-production V12-powered S600. The S500 and S600 are also available as two-door specialty coupes.

The highly successful C-Class consists of two mid-size sport sedans — the four-cylinder, 2.2 liter C220 and the six-cylinder, 2.8 liter C280. Like all '95 Mercedes models, both C-Class sedans use four-valve-per-cylinder engine technology and come equipped with dual front airbags, four-wheel disc brakes with ABS, multi-link independent rear suspension, CFC-free electronic climate control, electric sunroof and automatic transmission.

In the arena of full-size luxury cars, the '95 E-Class line consists of the V8-powered E420 sedan — the E-Class flagship — the six-cylinder E320 (available in sedan, coupe, station wagon, and cabriolet body styles) and the fuel-efficient E300 Diesel, the first production car to use four-valve technology in a diesel engine.

All 1995 Mercedes-Benz cars come with a four-year/50,000-mile warranty. In addition, all Mercedes cars, regardless of model year, are covered by the Mercedes-Benz 24-hour Roadside Assistance program. This peace of mind can extend to a free tire change, a jump start or a few gallons of fuel, even for a Mercedes produced decades ago.
